NORWAY INVITES SWEDEN, DENMARK TO PEACE PARLEY

Roosevelt Reported Not Willing To Break With Russia and Thereby Upset the Negotiations.

COPENHAGEN—Norway issues rush call for Scandinavian conference to seek settlement of Finnish-Russian war; diplomats gather Thursday in Oslo.

HELSINKI—Finnish army reports capture of many Russian prisoners on Karelian peninsula; unconfirmed reports say Finnish raiders attack Russian air base in Estonia.

STOCKHOLM—Sweden strengthens military and civilian defenses; calls up 40,000 men, mides territorial waters in Aland islands.

LONDON—Britain condemns Russian attack on Finland as "inexcusable," spurns quick peace with Germany to escape "worse perils."

(Foreign News in Pages 6 and 12)

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Norway issued a rush call today for a conference of Scandinavian countries to explore the possibilities of peaceful settlement of the Finnish-Russian war and to take stock of their own alarming situation.

Emphasizing the earnest desire of the northern countries to re-establish peace, Norwegian Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht invited the foreign ministers of Sweden and Denmark to meet with him in Oslo Thursday.

(In Washington, President Roosevelt was described by high officials as feeling that the Baltic situation was not hopeless and that he does not wish "to upset the apple cart" by breaking off relations with Russia or recalling the Soviet ambassador.)

The prospect of any stronger stand by the three nations in support of Russian-invaded Finland was dimmed, however, by a subsequent declaration by Prime Minister Thordvald Stauning of Denmark that his country would maintain neutrality.

Sweden Shows Alarm.

Sweden, showing increasing alarm at the Soviet incursion into Finland, mined her territorial waters near the Finnish-owned Aland islands in the Baltic and took other precautionary steps to

Three Clayton Officials Meet as Trial Is Delayed Day

Sitting in "a routine business meeting" yesterday in the Jonesboro courthouse were three of the five Clayton county commissioners charged with malpractice in office by a November grand jury. Upstairs Solicitor Roy Leathers postponed hearing against the commission until 9 o'clock this morning. Left to right are Commissioners F. C. Cargile, E. L. Stephens and Dr. J. R. Wallis. Prior cases on the docket caused the delay.

'Opportunity' Family Problems Outlined

Money Is Not Real Need as a Rule But Does Furnish Groups a Chance To Become Master of Themselves Again.

By FRANK DRAKE.
Are the Ten Opportunity families that The Constitution presents every year merely poor families who just need money?

That is a question people here in Atlanta frequently ask as Christmas draws near and the stories of the tragic plight of the Ten Opportunity families are told in the columns of this newspaper. It is a question people have a right to have answered. Here is the answer:

Real Problem.
Of course, they need money, and need it badly, but that isn't all. Each of the families introduced to Atlantans by The Constitution are real families and each one has a hard, real problem facing it in addition to the need for money.

The Family Welfare Society, which co-operates with this newspaper in presenting the Ten Opportunity, carefully investigates every family which is included in the Ten Opportunities and selects for this annual Christmas campaign only those mothers and fathers who are now faced with an apparently insurmountable barrier to independence but who can, within a reasonable time, win their way by hard, ambitious fighting, back to complete independence.

More Than Money Needed.
Such battles as these people fight take more than money but as you yourself know, you can't fight on an empty stomach and you can't fight if you are sick and without medicine and a doctor's care. What the Ten Opportunity fund tries to do, and has done successfully in more cases than there is space to tell, is to provide the few dollars these families need to see them over the hard pull. It's like a tiny child struggling up a steep, slippery bank who gets a helping hand from an adult to reach the top.

Distress and tragedy don't just select the poorer sections of this great city of ours, though of course need is greater in the low-income areas. Misery and fear and insecurity frequently hit with devastating force.

CLAYTON TRIALS AGAIN DELAYED

Judge Recalls Grand Jury; Cases Postponed Until This Afternoon.

Trial of five Clayton county commissioners, delayed from yesterday morning, was further put off last night by the surprise action of Superior Court Judge James C. Davis in summoning the grand jury to reconvene this morning.

Solicitor Roy Leathers, whose required presence before the grand jury forced the adjournment of court until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, said he had "nothing to bring before the jury" and said he did not know what the jury would discuss.

The commissioners, facing charges of malpractice in office, first were granted a day of grace yesterday when Solicitor Leathers found two prior cases on his docket which had to be cleared before the charges against the officials could be heard.

The delay in the trial of the commissioners, who will face the court separately, was caused by the last of a string of grand jury indictments against Clayton roadhouse proprietors and a demand for trial from J. W. Brown, charged with stealing a hog. The court decided to clear its docket before opening the complicated trial against the officials, indicted last month.

The last of the roadhouse proprietors to face the Jonesboro session of the Stone Mountain superior court circuit was A. T. Jeans, also known as "Pee Wee" Burns. After shifting from court to court during the past two years on assorted lottery and whisky charges, he was cited yesterday for operating a gambling establishment at the Log Cabin lodge.

$750,000 SOUGHT IN FULTON COUNTY FOR SCHOOL NEEDS

Bond Issue Recommended; Atlanta Not Affected; 17,000 Non-Urban Voters To Be Contacted.

A bond issue of $750,000 to provide additional classroom space for county pupils was yesterday recommended in a resolution adopted by the Fulton county school board.

Superintendent Jere A. Wells declared this amount would provide at least 240 new classrooms and that the program contemplated included a new high school building at College Park and annexes at North Fulton, West Fulton, Hapeville, Alpharetta and Fairburn.

In addition, enlargements are planned for virtually every elementary school in the county system and several new schools for negroes, Wells added.

Polling to Begin at Once.

Machinery has been set in motion for polling 17,000 registered voters in the territory affected in order that the required approval of 25 per cent may be obtained to enable the board to call an election for the issue early next spring, said Wells.

Letters explaining the proposal and enclosing postal cards which may be signed and returned in lieu of an actual petition are expected to be placed in the mails by Saturday and it is anticipated a sufficient number of favorable replies will be received in time for further action by the board at its meeting January 2. The bonds would apply only to residents of the county outside of the city of Atlanta.

Wells said the financial help is "badly needed." He pointed out that the September-October grand jury had recommended the bond issue after a full investigation.

Passes Unanimously.

The resolution, which was adopted unanimously, sets forth that the rapidly increasing school population of the Fulton county system has "overextended existing facilities" and that the board "is unable to meet its housing needs out of current revenue."

Anticipating still more growth in all sections of the county, the resolution declared that further congestion "will be a menace to the health and general welfare of the children of Fulton county."

It also was stated that after a study of the funds necessary to amortize the existing bonds and the proposed new issue, "It is our very definite opinion that all bonds can be retired within 17 years with funds derived from the 1-2 mills tax now levied annually for bond purposes."

AIR ROUTE OPENED.

CHUNGKING, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A special emissary from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to Russia, General Ho Yao-tsu, departed today on a plane inaugurating a new 5,000-mile air line between Chungking and Moscow.

Noise Dodgers Have Fun; Give Judge Bill for $63.50

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER.
NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—If the noise-hating James C. Lewises had followed all of Magistrate Henry H. Curran's instructions about having a pleasant evening "on the town" as a prelude to a good night's rest, what size might the check have been?

That "infinitesimal, Lilliputian bill" of $63.50 which they ran up for wine, food and hotel room was paid today by the Manhattan commissioner of borough works, with an "unknown benefactor" providing the cash—but even the magistrate, who ordered the round of pleasure was a bit taken aback by

Student on Food "Jag" Hunts Five Pounds

A deserter in the ranks dines with right good will in an attempt to regain the five pounds lost during a week of starving on German war rations. He is George Stribling, who, last night, announced his retirement from scientific dieting. With three other students he had been eating the limited food rations decreed by Nazi officials.

'Thin Man' Quits Tech 'Nazi' Diet

'They Can Have It,' Says Stribling, Going Out for Real Food.

By CHARLES GILMORE.
Four Georgia Tech students eating rations on a spree; One got under-fed-up. And then there were three.

George Stribling, 17, yesterday pulled himself together and muttered weakly: "If the German people want my share of their war rations, they can have 'em. Personally, I am going out and get something to eat."

So last night three Georgia Tech students sat down to their regular dinner, of nothing much, glanced enviously at the empty plate in memory of their departed friend, and concluded the eighth day of a self-imposed diet consisting only of official Nazi war rations.

Meat, Meat, More Meat.

But Stribling was eating all the meat he could hold, white bread, sweet milk with cream and absolutely no cabbage, in an effort to regain the five pounds he lost during the week of dieting. Entering the program sparsely with 145 pounds stretched over a tall, lanky frame, he couldn't afford, he said, to lose much weight.

"I wouldn't eat that stuff again for love or money. What there is, and that isn't saying much, is terrible. Turnips and potatoes, cabbage and potatoes, potato bread, a speck of meat every now and then—that's no way to live. Besides, I'm going out for the swimming team."

Loss Saddens Trio.

His three former comrades—Henry Mayo, Ed Schmidt, and James Scanlon—shook their heads sadly. Stribling had deserted them. He had violated his pledge to eat nothing but rations until "Christmas or rickets."

"Starvation," Stribling says, "is worse than rickets. It's worse than anything. I'm glad I quit." It became apparent that with more strength he easily would

ARKWRIGHT URGES MODERNIZATION TO COST $500,000

Installation Subject to Approval of County, City Heads; Oglethorpe Is Included in Plan.

Modernization of the Georgia Power Company's north side transportation system at a cost of half a million dollars was proposed yesterday by President Preston S. Arkwright in a talk before the Buckhead Fifty Club.

Under Arkwright's plan, 28 new trackless trolleys will replace street cars on the West Peachtree, Buckhead and Oglethorpe lines. The new trolleys will provide express, nonstop service between downtown and Pershing Point, while seven new motor buses will be installed to serve West Peachtree residents.

Subject to Approval.

Installation of the new system is subject to approval by Fulton and DeKalb authorities and the Atlanta city government, as well as the municipal governments of communities served in north Fulton and DeKalb counties.

The company also will seek to discontinue street car service on the Peachtree-Brookwood line between Collier road and Pershing Point. Present service between the two points, Arkwright said, is a needless duplication of facilities the new trolleys will provide.

Better Service.

Under the plan, the new vehicles will operate at substantially higher rates of speed than the present street cars. The greater speed of the trackless trolleys, plus the express service on West Peachtree, will shorten the Buckhead run by 10 minutes and the Oglethorpe run by 12 minutes. Arkwright explained that three-minute intervals between trolleys would be maintained between Buckhead and the city during rush hours, and that five-minute intervals would be set for the West Peachtree buses.

He stated the company would be able to give better service between Buckhead and Oglethorpe because the present single track now limits the frequency of cars. With trackless trolleys, this limitation on the growth of the Peachtree road section would be removed, he said.

Trackless trolleys will be an important contribution toward solving the problem of congested traffic.

Net Profit of $5,000,000 For Southern Railway Seen

October Term Best Month for Road Since 1930; President Discounts War Orders as Being Responsible; Stimulated Business Is Given Credit.

Net profit of "upwards of $5,000,000 above fixed charges" for Southern Railway this year as compared with a loss of $487,000 during 1938 was predicted last night by Ernest E. Norris, president of the line.

Interviewed in Chattanooga, where he had gone to address a luncheon club today, Norris said that October was the railroad's best month since 1930. Discounting war orders as being responsible for the increase, he declared he is expecting "a reasonably good business through the first quarter of next year."

Generally stimulated business throughout the entire southeast was cited as the principal factor in the huge gain over last year's figures, with cotton mills, particularly in recent months, contributing much toward the larger volume of freight business.

Many of the mills have been running on 24-hour shifts, it was pointed out, while gains in the building industry also have brought corresponding gains in transportation tonnage.

Reductions in fares recently put into effect are thought to have resulted in gains in passenger revenue as well, some leaders stated. It also was pointed out that the efficient operation of the line under Norris' management made it possible to show a substantial profit at the first business upturn.

FIK, U. S. RUBBER ARE NEGOTIATING ON MAJOR MERGER

U. S. Company Expected To Make 'Formal' Offer Within Week; Proposed Terms Not Disclosed.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(P)—The biggest merger in the rubber manufacturing field in several years was under consideration today as directors of Fisk Rubber Corporation studied a tentative offer by U. S. Rubber Company to purchase the former's properties.

Francis B. Davis Jr., chairman and president of U. S. Rubber, second largest in the industry, announced his company was negotiating for the acquisition of Fisk and planned to make wider use of the Fisk plants if the deal is concluded.

It would merge the properties and assets of Fisk, with a balance sheet total of $14,000,000, with the $180,000,000 capital and physical structure of U. S. Rubber.

A statement by Colonel Charles E. Speaks, president of Fisk, following a meeting of his board late this afternoon, confirmed the negotiations, but added that no action was taken. Financial quarters understood U. S. Rubber would make its "formal" offer within the next week. The proposed terms were not disclosed.

Fisk, well known in the industry, is one of the smaller in tire manufacturers. Plants are at Chicopee Falls and New Bedford, Mass. A year ago it acquired a rubber factory, in co-operation with Swedish interests at Viskafors, Sweden.

Davis explained U. S. Rubber, seeking additional tire capacity, attempted to work out a supply arrangement with Fisk and then turned to negotiations for outright purchase when the other plan proved to be unworkable.

MINORITY STOCKHOLDERS, MAYOR ARE OPPOSED
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Dec. 5.—(P)—A group of minority stockholders of the Fisk Rubber Corporation and Mayor Anthony Stolina, of Chicopee, joined in registering strong opposition today to a tentative offer from the U. S. Rubber Company for the purchase of the Fisk firm's properties.

HEARING SATURDAY IN MILLER OUSTER

tion of Patten as chairman, although Miller put in a brief appearance at the highway building but made no effort to function as a member of the board.

Meanwhile mystery enveloped the status and location of a court order, signed shortly after midnight Monday morning by Superior Judge Smith. It was reported that Judge Smith's temporary injunction order, directing Patten and his associates not to interfere with Miller's attempts to act as board chairman, had been recorded in Lanier county shortly before daylight Monday morning and sent to Atlanta for service by Sheriff J. C. (Mott) Aldredge said he had seen nothing of it.

Writ Returnable Saturday.
The writ is returnable Saturday morning and it is understood that Patten is making preparations to answer it, even though service is not obtained on him before that time.

Patten, it was learned yesterday, will plead that he is holding the chairmanship by virtue of election by his board associates, Gillis and Herman H. Watson, of Dallas, and that although carrying the title of chairman there actually is no chairman under law inasmuch as the act under which the Highway Board is now operating does not provide for a chairman. Patten merely signs papers for the board and carries the title of chairman without legal authority under conditions which prevailed during Miller's tenure.

Shuffled Around.
The place on the board held by Patten was that formerly held by Watson. Watson in turn holds the place formerly held by Gillis while Gillis has been appointed to Miller's term.

Capitol lawyers are of the opinion that Miller has only one avenue in court and that is to seek the board membership held by Gillis. Gillis is a resident of Treutlen county and it is presumed that following dissolution of the Nashville injunction Miller will have to go into Treutlen superior court and make his case on issues of fact which necessitates a trial before a jury. Gillis is considered very powerful in Treutlen county and because of this it is an open secret that Miller would be at a disadvantage.

Today's individual menu for the Georgia Tech students eating German war rations is:

Breakfast
Two slices potato bread.
Dash of jam.

Lunch
Soup composed of
One-fourth ounce onion.
One ounce tomato.
Eight ounces potatoes.
Glass of skimmed milk.

Dinner
One and one-fourth frankfurters.
Three spoonfuls of cowpeas.
Two slices potato bread.
Half-pat of butter.
Glass of skimmed milk.
Bottle of beer.

Monday a tabulation disclosed that the group had lost a total of 22 pounds since the diet began November 27. They take their rations, prepared specially and weighed carefully to the last ounce by Manager Jack Lester, in the Georgia Tech College Inn, one of the student dining halls.

But they were resting on fame as reports came from Seattle, Dallas, Birmingham, and New England that newspapers were heralding their attempt to prove that Germans cannot live on rations. But you can't live on fame, either.

Miller remained at the highway department only about an hour yesterday. He occupied the board room. He was accompanied by Clem E. Wright, dismissed assistant state highway engineer. Wright said he doubted if Patten could fire him because he has been directing the highway planning survey for which the federal government pays 80 per cent of the cost. Wright made no effort, however, to return to his office.

Meanwhile Patten and his associates took no notice of reports that the upheaval over the board chairmanship might cost Georgia all or part of its federal funds. The Patten regime let it be known, however, that it feels that by the time it is ready to take advantage of federal funds the smoke of battle will have cleared away.

LEGISLATOR SUGGESTS ADMINISTRATION PROBE
ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 5.—(P)—Delacey Allen, Dougherty county representative, declared today he would "join a movement to convene the general assembly to investigate the entire present state administration."

Speaking at an education conference sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association, Allen asserted: "The plight of our schools, in my opinion, has been brought about by the mishandling and misuse of the state's money by the present administration."

Criticizing the ouster of W. L. Miller as chairman of the State Highway Board, Allen said, "In my opinion, formed after careful investigation, the attempt to fire Mr. Miller was made because of the fact that he would not allow some contractors, equipment and material men to control his office."

OHIO TOLD TO BEAR HALF RELIEF LOAD

'Cleveland Needs Action To Fit Facts,' Mayor Burton Declares.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5.—(P)—To end Ohio's relief headache, Cleveland's mayor declared today, the state must meet half the city's burden of feeding the hungry this year and next.

Mayor Harold H. Burton's declaration came 26 hours after Governor John W. Bricker issued a statement insisting "the state has done all in its power" and upholding his refusal to call the legislature into special session.

In a 1,500-word statement, Mayor Burton asserted: "Sixty thousand men, women and children are destitute in our midst and tragically in need of food, shelter and clothing. Cleveland needs action to fit the facts."

A few hours earlier the state made public figures showing it bore 32 per cent of the relief load from July 1 to November 1 and 50 per cent of the November load. The legislature last winter appropriated $10,000,000 for relief this year, to be matched dollar-for-dollar by communities.

New Traffic Court Judge Pledges Fair Treatment

Recorder John L. Cone yesterday prepared to take over on January 1 a special traffic division of the recorder's court, which city council voted Monday, asserting: "I'll stay within the minimum and maximum fines and try to treat everybody fairly."

The Cone statement came as Mayor Hartsfield indicated he will approve the ordinance passed in Friday's council session with but one dissenting ballot.

"It will be my purpose to do everything possible to give the people good service in the new position which council has established," Cone said.

Minimum fines, which have been accepted because of previous custom are:

Any illegal parking, $3.
Passing stop sign, $4.
Passing red traffic light, $7.
Reckless driving, $3 to $100.
Speeding, $1 for each mile over 25 miles an hour, plus $2 court costs.

Drunken driving (first offense), $52.

50 PER CENT CUT IN COTTON EXPORT SUBSIDY ORDERED

Wallace Decreases Reduction Because Major Portion of Appropriation Has Been Pledged.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—(AP)—A 50 per cent reduction in the government's subsidy on cotton exports was ordered today by Secretary Wallace.

The agriculture secretary cut the cotton export bounty from a cent and a half to three-fourths of a cent a pound, or from about $7.50 to $3.75 a bale, effective at 11:01 a. m.

The reason for the move was that the government already has agreed to pay out more than $32,000,000 of the $36,000,000 supplied by Congress for subsidizing foreign sales of the staple.

The cotton marketing season opened August 1 and has nearly seven months to go, with the big bulk of subsidy funds already pledged.

Although Wallace was in Chicago, a statement under his name was issued here explaining the subsidy reduction.

"The sales for export to date under the program have been very satisfactory and the apparent export demand indicates probable continued favorable export sales with the reduced payments," Wallace said. "The reduction in payments will make possible continuation of the program for a longer period with the available limited funds."

Wallace said he believed the lower subsidy rate would "result in greater total exports than would be possible if the present rate were kept up until it became necessary to discontinue the program entirely."

The secretary reported that export subsidy agreements had been made on 4,344,354 bales between July 27 and December 4 of this year. He pointed out that this was 982,000 bales more than were exported during the entire 12 months of the 1938-39 season.

55 TRUCKERS FILE NEW RATE SCHEDULE

Proposed Scale Is Reported Lower Than Rail Tariffs.

Fifty-five motor carriers filed a revised schedule of freight rates, in most instances lower than existing tariffs, with the Georgia Public Service Commission yesterday.

The rate schedule was filed as the carriers' answer to the commission's order to show cause why motor carrier freight charges should not be standardized. Each of the truckers hold Class A certificates.

Commission Chairman Walter McDonald said the new truck rates propose shipping charges below rail tariffs, but declined to estimate possible savings should the commission adopt the truckers' proposal.

The rate hearing will be resumed January 10, McDonald said, and representatives of other carriers and shippers will be asked to testify.

McDonald said the proposed rates cover all commodities except those on which the commission revised the rates. Included in the latter are canned goods, lard compounds and roofing.

"There has been general dissatisfaction among the shippers because of the existing chaotic conditions of tariffs," the chairman said. "At present motor carriers generally base their charges on rail freight rates in the southern territory."

Henry Grady Puckett, son of the late W. H. D. Puckett, was host at the old family farm last week at a chattering breakfast.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Puckett, Mrs. W. I. Rudicill, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Pirie, Mrs. Cora Stone, Miss Frances Stone, Lawrence Stone, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lummus, Martha Lummus, Lewis Lummus, Charles Lumus, Leverette Puckett, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. G. Puckett, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Puckett, and Miss Florence Halbrooks.

The breakfast was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Grady Puckett and their children, Misses Retha Mae, Edna, Montaree, Melba Puckett, and Wansley Puckett.

Australia plans to spend over $5,000,000 on civil aviation this year.

NIGHT COUGHS

YOUR CHILD'S coughing at night—caused by throat "tickles" or irritation, mouth breathing, or a cold—can often be prevented by rubbing the throat and chest with plenty of Vicks VapoRub at bedtime.

VAPORUB'S SWIFT poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation, clears air passages, tends to stop mouth breathing, and invites healing, restful sleep. Try it.

FHA EXECUTIVES DISCUSS FEDERAL RENTAL-HOUSING

McDonald Writes Group Chief Function Is To Provide Dwellings for Modest Income Class.

Southeastern executives of the Federal Housing Administration continued yesterday sessions begun Monday to advance the rental-housing program in which the administration already has an estimated $160,000,000 invested.

They heard from Stewart McDonald, administrator, writing from Washington, this declaration concerning the purpose of the rental-housing phase of the administration's work:

"Our chief function is to provide housing for people of modest incomes who are not in the market for home ownership for one reason or another.

Seeks Lower Rents. "We must get rents and costs down in rental-housing construction just as we are reducing financing charges and costs in the small house field."

They Couldn't Sleep So They Tried This

Here's Mr. and Mrs. James C. Lewis, of New York, having a $40 dinner, as instructed by Magistrate Henry H. Curran, after they had complained that noise of a construction project so disturbed them they couldn't sleep. "Go out and have a good time," the judge said, "and send the bill to me." The party cost someone $63.50.

divisions of the administration are attending the sessions in addition to Assistant Administrators Clyde L. Powell, Miles Coleman and Jay Keegan; Deputy Administrator Milton K. Moore, Curt C. Mack, director of appraisal, and E. Henry Klaber, director of architecture, all of Washington.

Visit Projects. Yesterday morning's meeting was marked by a discussion of market problems and business development methods by Keegan. The visitors, guided by R. E. Matheson, state director, made a tour of inspection of the Peachtree Hills apartments and Emory Court cottages, both rental projects. Klaber, in the afternoon, discussed methods of planning low rental projects. Powell will address the group this morning, and afterwards there will be a general discussion of problems and of questions by the state directors. Technical questions will occupy tomorrow's and Friday's sessions.

for the show, the snack and the night club.

Complained of Noise.

The couple, who had appeared in Yorkville court yesterday to charge the construction company with violating the anti-noise ordinance, looked fresh and serene when they reappeared to present their expense account, after nine hours' sleep in a comfortable suite at the Waldorf.

"It was worth it, wasn't it?" inquired Curran. "To whom, I don't just know yet. How much did it cost?"

"$63.32," said Lewis, and spectators roared.

"Hire the Normandy."

The borough works commissioner, Walter D. Binger, observed it might have been cheaper to charter the Normandy and send the Lewises to the Tour d'Argent, Paris, for a pressed duck dinner.

"The Tour d'Argent has the best pressed duck," mused Magistrate Curran. "How was the burgundy last night?" he asked Mr. and Mrs. Lewis.

"Perfect," they chorused. "It was the best," said Magistrate Curran. "I am reminded of one of Horace's odes:

"What tongue hangs fire when quickened by the bowl, "What witch so poor but wine expands his soul?"

He indicated that he hoped the Lewises and also the department of borough works had expanded their activities by the episode; "and now," he said, "we must get to the question of this Lilliputian bill, this infinitesimal account."

"I was afraid for a while I would be the known benefactor, but an unknown benefactor is paying it."

Incidentally, here's what Magistrate Curran had for his own dinner, after telling Mr. and Mrs. Lewis to dine and sleep well last night:

Sweet martini cocktail, soup, steak, burgundy wine and quinces.

F. P. WATROUS, 80, DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Mississippi Native Spent 40 Years in Central America.

Frank Peters Watrous, 80, a native of Mississippi, who spent 40 years on the sugar plantations of Central America, died here yesterday afternoon at the home of a son, F. W. Watrous, of 2564 Arbor avenue, where he had been visiting.

Born in Aberdeen, Mr. Watrous left the United States with his family shortly after the Civil War and did not return until 1908. Settling in Long Beach, Miss., he made his home there until 1928.

In recent years he divided his time between Atlanta and the home of another son, H. A. Watrous, of Lake Worth, Fla. He had been ill only a short time and his death was unexpected.

Also surviving are three other sons, G. S. Watrous, of Long Beach; J. F. Watrous, of Dallas, and T. V. Watrous, of Marshall, Ark., and a sister, Mrs. Ella Ransom.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill by the Rev. Russell F. Johnson. The body is to be sent to Long Beach for burial in the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

MRS. ROUNDTREE DIES AT QUITMAN

Wife of Railroad Executive Was Ill Several Months; Rites Today.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. QUITMAN, Ga., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Samuel S. Roundtree, wife of the president of the South Georgia railway, died at her home here last night following an illness of several months. She was the former Miss Minnie Lewis, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Lewis, of Scottsville, Va., and was married 49 years ago, residing here since.

Mrs. Roundtree was active in religious, social and civic life. She was a charter member and second president of Quitman U. D. C. chapter and historian for life; charter chapter member of D. A. R., a member of the Woman's Club and active in work of the Presbyterian church.

She is survived by her husband, who is president also of the South Georgia Grocery Company and the Bank of Quitman. Other survivors are: two sisters, Mrs. Agnes L. Carter, of Charlottesville, Va., and Mrs. Albert S. Harness, of Norfolk, Va.; a brother, Claborne Lewis, of Davis, W. Va. and several nieces and nephews. Funeral services will be held from the home here tomorrow afternoon.

ELKS CONVENTION TO MEET TONIGHT

East Point Will Be Host to Group.

The northeast convention of the Georgia Elks Association will be held at East Point at 8 o'clock tonight for the district comprising Rome, Atlanta, Decatur and East Point. Young H. Fraser, vice president of the association, will preside.

Among the subjects to be discussed will be plans for giving help to the 12,000 crippled children of Georgia and the state.

EXCLUSIVE

F. D. R. or Dewey?

Gallup Trial Heat Gives President Edge.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 5.—One political question which has come to the forefront in recent months, particularly since the European war, is just how strong a third-term race President Roosevelt would run against a flesh-and-blood Republican candidate.

To find some indication, the American Institute of Public Opinion has conducted an experimental test in which it matched Roosevelt against Thomas E. Dewey, the young Republican district attorney who will make his first presidential campaign speech in Minneapolis tomorrow.

The results are by no means a conclusive indication of what might happen if these two men were actually the candidates in 1940.

The issue presented to the voters, who comprised a carefully selected cross-section of both parties throughout the country, was as follows:

"If Thomas Dewey runs for President in 1940 on the Republican ticket against Roosevelt running for a third term on the Democratic ticket, which would you prefer?"

The vote of those expressing a preference follows:

ROOSEVELT 54%

DEWEY 46%

Approximately one-seventh of the voters in the survey, or 14 per cent, said they were undecided at this time. Their vote could, of course, tip the scales in such a close race if most of it went to one or the other candidate.

By comparison with six months ago, Roosevelt has increased slightly in popularity against Dewey, for a similar experimental test last May found Roosevelt preferred by 45 per cent and Dewey by 55 per cent.

Neither survey, however, represents anything more than a purely experimental "trial heat."

An analysis of the vote by parties indicates that a small bloc of Democratic voters say they would switch parties to vote for Dewey. A still smaller group of Republicans say they would prefer Roosevelt to Dewey.

Prefer Dewey 12% Prefer Roosevelt 88%

RUBIN & CHERRY LOSES SUIT APPEAL

Father Charged Employee Slapped His Daughter.

The state court of appeals yesterday upheld a $875 damage claim against the Rubin & Cherry Expositions, Inc., brought by Harry Bray, father of 12-year-old Lila Bray, who allegedly was slapped by one of the company's employees.

The suit, filed in Columbus, contended the girl had been injured when Richard A. Jones, an employee of the shows, forcefully made the child continue through a "crazy house" after she had become frightened. The appellate court held the company was responsible for its employee's action.

The first squadron of army planes detailed for service at the United States new air base at Punta Borinquen arrived there today at 1:30 p. m. (Atlanta time).

The planes, in charge of Major Delmar H. Dunton, circled San Juan, 60 miles from Punta Borinquen, before landing at the new base. They flew by way of Miami, Fla., and Camaguey, Cuba.

MISS TRAYLOR DIES; FINAL RITES TODAY

Widely Known Genealogist
Member of Pioneer
Georgia Family.

Miss Elizabeth Traylor, member of a pioneer Georgia family and a widely known genealogist, died here yesterday morning at a private hospital after a brief illness. She had been making her home at the Georgian Terrace hotel.

Born at "Forrest Home," near LaGrange, she was the eldest daughter of the late Colonel and Mrs. John Humphrey Traylor, both connected with prominent Troup county families.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the old Traylor home, near LaGrange. Burial will be in the family cemetery there under direction of Brandon-Bond-Condor.

Miss Traylor was educated at LaGrange College and later attended Mrs. Reed's school in New York city. As a registered genealogist, she did much research work in the state library at Richmond, Va., the Congressional library and the New York Public library. She compiled many family histories and was contributor to "First Families of America."

Surviving are the following nieces and nephews: Mrs. R. J. Thiesen, Miss Ruth Northern, and George T. Northern, all of Atlanta; Mrs. Thomas Dunham, of Miami Beach; Mrs. Alan Putnam, of New York; Mrs. Pickens Gates, of Huntsville, Ala.; and Mrs. John Orr, of Birmingham.

The newspaper Imparcial said Cabero would trade posts with Marcial Mora, president of the central bank.

Common Sense About Constipation
A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to cure it afterward—you can avoid having it.
Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk"! And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines.
If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need.
Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

MINISTERS TO HOLD FINAL TALK SESSION

Will Meet Thursday To Discuss Church Loyalty Program.

The final session of Atlanta ministers for the discussion of topics to be used in the Church Loyalty program, which has been carried on in Atlanta for the past 12 weeks, will be held at 10:30 o'clock Thursday morning at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, 731 Peachtree street, N. E.

Ministers report that the program has been one of the most successful ever carried out in Atlanta and has resulted in tremendous increase in church attendance. During the 12 weeks there has been a unanimity among the ministers on sermon topics with the idea of concentrating throughout the city each Sunday on a single subject.

At the meeting Thursday morning the Rev. H. E. Russell, pastor of the Rock Spring Presbyterian church, will lead discussion on the topic, "The Christ of the Incarnation," and the second topic, "The Home at Nazareth," will be presented by Dr. K. Owen White, pastor of the Kirkwood Baptist church.

E. F. KING ELECTED HAPEVILLE'S MAYOR

A. B. C. Wall and Augustus Hillsman Win Places on Town Council.

Eugene F. King was named mayor of Hapeville in the general election yesterday, defeating Frank J. McCormack by a vote of 394 to 51. He will succeed J. Raymond Cathy.

In the two council races, A. B. C. Wall won in the first ward over three opponents, and Augustus Hillsman defeated two opponents in the second ward.

Wall polled 63 votes to 54 for H. M. White, 35 for L. A. Norton, the incumbent, and 23 for Mays C. McElhannon. Hillsman had 64 votes to 40 for A. T. Rousey and 12 for A. T. Cook.

Holdover members are W. E. Campbell in the third ward, Brown Tyler in the fourth ward, and Roscoe Mullins, alderman-at-large. The new officials will take office next year.

FIRST-DAY WINNERS IN CARTOON CONTEST

Three One-Dollar Prizes Offered for Best Coloring by Youngsters.

Well, here they are, boys and girls, the winners for the first day in the coloring contest now being conducted by The Constitution.

Prizes of one dollar have been mailed to each of the following three youngsters for their work in coloring the Kris Kringle cartoon which appeared Monday:

George McLarty, 9, of 885 State street, a student at Home Park school.

Seth Bishop, 12, of 580 Willow street, a pupil at the Calhoun school.

Kathleen Gilley, 10, of 481 Atlanta avenue, S. E., a pupil at Jerome Jones school.

Prizes will be awarded each day for 11 days more, so if you haven't yet entered this novel contest, do so now.

Each day, The Constitution is publishing a Kris Kringle cartoon on the comic page and offering three one dollar prizes for the best job of coloring done by juvenile artists.

For complete details, turn to the comic page, where the third drawing in the series appears.

Britain Again Condemns Red Invasion of Finland

Halifax Says England Is Aware of Threats to European Society.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(P)—Great Britain today condemned anew the Russian invasion of Finland but spurned any quick peace with Germany to meet "worse perils."

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the house of lords that the Russian attack had been "universally condemned as an inexcusable act of aggression" and declared it was an outgrowth of the Russian-German pact signed August 23.

Under this pact, he said, Adolf Hitler bartered the liberty of the Baltic peoples for a free hand in his attack on Poland.

"In the face of these events we have an increasing awareness of the perils that threaten European society as a direct consequence of German policy," Halifax said.

"I have heard it suggested," he continued, "that an immediate peace on almost any terms would be desirable in order to save western civilization from worse sense and that, if they really maintain this Red government, it will insure that the Finns will fight to the death. Which contradicts the previous idea of an easy Russian success and might involve Russia in a hard military struggle.

I refuse to believe that Stalin wants that at any price, for two good reasons. First, whether he is an imperialist or a revolutionist, the present state of world affairs demands imperatively that he play a waiting policy and let the other powers exhaust themselves, if they will be so good—but, anyway, a waiting policy. Second, Soviet Russia is in no position to support an onerous war.

It is therefore thought here in some quarters that, if the Finns hold fast, the Russians will not push the attack home, and peace terms can be made on a basis that would give Stalin some extra defenses for Leningrad but would

SWEDEN SPEEDS UP MILITARY DEFENSES

40,000 Reserves Are Called Up; Territorial Waters Are Mined.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 5.—(P)—Sweden strengthened her military and civilian defenses today and sped negotiations for a new government to present a united front in efforts to preserve her neutrality before the Russian-Finnish war crisis.

In a day marked by a steadily increasing tempo in offices where employees were called to military service and in grave conversations in private and official quarters were these developments:

1. About 40,000 men were called to the colors from 14 classes of military reserves between the ages of 21 and 34, for "wartime service." The additions brought the number of men under arms to about 150,000 compared to the normal standing force of 20,000.

2. The government announced the mining of Swedish territorial waters opposite the Finnish-owned Aland islands in the Baltic "in order to make supervision easier for the Swedish neutrality guard."

3. Premier Per Albin Hansson acknowledged negotiations were being pressed for a cabinet which would include conservatives and liberals with the present labor-farmer parties.

Political sources said Foreign Minister Richard J. Sandler likely would resign in favor of Arvid Richert, a conservative, now minister to Berlin.

ing a decision on the question of recalling the American ambassador to Russia, a course of action strongly proposed by several Republican leaders, who have criticized the President for recognizing Russia originally. In this connection it was indicated the administration is hopeful the Russo-Finnish hostilities may be ended soon.

Willing to Denounce Reds.

A fourth development of the day was a statement by Sumner Welles, the acting secretary of state, making known that the United States was ready to take part in a joint denunciation of Russia by a number of American nations.

Mr. Roosevelt told of his plans for the Finnish war debt payments at a press conference in the White House which he replied with an abrupt and emphatic negative to a question whether it would be unnecessary to forgive the Finnish debt payments under the circumstances.

May Use Past Payments.

As to just what would ultimately be worked out, Mr. Roosevelt was uncertain. Thus far, however, he said, he had asked Secretary Morgenthau to segregate the Finnish debt payment of $234,000, expected on December 15, in a separate account and leave it untouched until the best method of making the money available to the Finnish people could be worked out. Some similar treatment would be accorded Finland's past payments, he indicated.

The fact that Finland, alone of all the nations of Europe, has scrupulously kept up her debt payments to the United States, has served to intensify the already deep sympathy for that country in her hour of duress. Suggestions that she be given special treatment regarding her debt payments have been made in several quarters.

Is Up to Congress.

However, it has been pointed out that only congress can change the terms of any of the present debt agreements. A deficit, however technical and however much approved by popular opinion, would, moreover, legally prevent the Finnish government from obtaining credits here under the Johnson act.

So a special method had to be found. As the President pointed out today, Secretary Morgenthau must, under the debt agreements, accept the Finnish payment of December 15 if it is tendered. Newspaper dispatches indicated, he said, that it would be offered. So he was proposing that the payment be held separate until he can take up with congress the question of letting the money be used to help the Finnish people.

He had made, he said, no decision as to what purposes the money might be used for. However, in answering the question as to the neutrality of the proposed action, he said the interrogation presupposed that it might be spent for airplanes to be sent to Finland.

Belgium Is Granted Blockade Exemption

BRUSSELS, Dec. 5.—(P)—The newspaper Libre Belgique today said the French and British had agreed to allow Belgian ships to carry German exports up to 25 per cent of a ship's tonnage. This equals the present traffic.

German exports via Antwerp have been reduced 50 per cent since the war began.

(In announcing an intensified blockade which started yesterday, Britain said German exports in his second grouping he said he saw no need to expand on that point.

Deny Kirov, or Any Tanks Lost in 'Activities' in Finland.

MOSCOW, Dec. 5.—(P)—Soviet Russia tonight issued an official denial that the 8,500-ton cruiser Kirov had been damaged and two destroyers sunk in action against Finnish coastal batteries.

The official statement said the seven-inch guns of the Kirov, one of the most modern of Soviet Russia's war fleet, easily out-ranged Finnish coastal batteries.

"Shells of the Finnish coastal artillery missed the cruiser Kirov by two and a half to three miles and caused merry animation and cheering among the crews of the Soviet warships," said the statement.

Leningrad military headquarters likewise issued a denial that Russia had lost large numbers of tanks and planes in action on the Finnish front.

"During the whole period of operations two Soviet planes were brought down and two lost their bearings due to bad weather and evidently landed in Finnish territory while we brought down 11 Finnish planes," said headquarters.

"All tanks participating in hostilities since November 30 are present and Finnish troops did not capture a single one."

SIBELIUS FORECASTS ULTIMATE SUCCESS

HELSINKI, Dec. 5.—(P)—Finnish's great composer, Jean Sibelius, though fighting illness, today expressed faith that his homeland, battling Russian invasion, would come out all right in the end.

"I am deeply convinced all that is happening now will end well," he declared.

Hundreds of telegrams of sympathy have been pouring into Sibelius' home near Helsinki, where he is ill.

BRITISH BOAT SINKS AFTER COLLISION

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—(Canadian Press)—Naval authorities reported a British merchantman was sunk after a collision during a thick fog tonight off the Nova Scotia coast. No lives were lost.

Remaining Inhabitants Migratory, Fearing Raids From Air.

By JAMES ALDRIDGE

For North American Newspaper Alliance.

HELSINKI, Dec. 5.—(By Wire)—Helsinki, under the snow, is almost a deserted city. The remaining inhabitants are mostly a migratory population, some leaving the city by day in fear of daylight air raids, and returning at night, while others remain in their homes during the day and seek safety from aerial bombings in the near-by countryside. No children remain in the city.

The roads are always crowded, with cars being forced into the ditch every mile or so. The population is gradually moving westward.

Every shop in Helsinki is boarded up, and only two or three are carrying on their business.

Only a few persons in Finland have gas masks, and most of these are Swedes, who received a consignment by air from Stockholm.

Helsinki's life centers about the Hotel Kamp, where food and drink and company are plentiful at night.

Only about 20 British citizens are left in Finland. The British consulate today was transferring its headquarters to a port on the west coast, but Vice Consul N. P. C. Allan intends to remain in the capital. He told this correspondent he was burning all his secret documents.

LABORITE RAPS PAY OF BRITISH SOLDIERS

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(P)—An assertion by Laborite William Dobbie that the wives of soldiers who have been with the army since August have had to pawn their possessions in order to buy food for their children, the house of commons into an uproar today.

Dobbie asserted the soldiers' wives had not received military allowances.

"The needs of these people are greater than the prestige of this house," he said.

ARMED LINER ARRIVES WITH 218 PASSENGERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(P)—An armor-plated "pillbox" on each wing of her bridge, the Cunard White Star liner Scythia arrived today from Liverpool with 218 passengers, including 100 German-Jewish refugees and 25 United States citizens.

The "pillboxes," with shatter-proof glass portholes, were designed to protect the ship's officers while directing navigation in case of a sea battle. The Scythia had a six-inch naval gun and an anti-aircraft gun mounted aft.

ITALIANS OFFERING TO FIGHT FOR FINNS

Scores Seek To Enlist, But Passport Difficulties May Preyvent Them.

ROME, Dec. 5.—(P)—Scores of Italians sought to enlist in the Finnish army today to fight against the Russians.

Applications poured into the Finnish legation as police prevented 1,000 university students from marching upon the Soviet embassy to express their sympathy for Finland.

Many young Italians appeared at the Finnish legation in person to offer their services.

The prospects of any Italian volunteers going to Finland was considered slight in diplomatic circles because of the difficulty in obtaining passports while Italy is intent on defending her own territory.

Finnish Minister Eero Järnefelt told applicants their services would be gladly accepted if they found means of reaching Finland.

Grey-clad, steel-helmeted soldiers stood in doorways around the Russian embassy as the students marched toward the building.

Friendship for the United States was shown by the students who cheered as they passed the United States consulate.

Britain Again Condemns Red Invasion of Finland

Halifax Says England Is Aware of Threats to European Society.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—(P)—Great Britain today condemned anew the Russian invasion of Finland but spurned any quick peace with Germany to meet "worse perils."

Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax told the house of lords that the Russian attack had been "universally condemned as an inexcusable act of aggression" and declared it was an outgrowth of the Russian-German pact signed August 23.

Under this pact, he said, Adolf Hitler bartered the liberty of the Baltic peoples for a free hand in his attack on Poland.

"In the face of these events we have an increasing awareness of the perils that threaten European society as a direct consequence of German policy," Halifax said.

"I have heard it suggested," he continued, "that an immediate peace on almost any terms would be desirable in order to save western civilization from worse perils. I think that view is short-sighted."

Halifax said that Britain would not consent to a peace until there was evidence that the German government was willing to accept terms in line with Britain's war aim of ending "the fear of aggression in Europe."

Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the house of commons that Foreign Undersecretary Richard Austen Butler would represent Britain at the League of Nations session called for this week end to debate Finland's charge of aggression against Russia. Butler will make clear Britain's position on the subject, Chamberlain said.

Halifax expressed regret that he himself could not go after Lord Cecil had declared that Halifax alone "can really voice the feelings not only of this country, France and Poland, but of the whole world—including America."

Chamberlain agreed to holding a one-day secret session of parliament to discuss supply matters. The date is to be arranged later.

sense and that, if they really maintain this Red government, it will insure that the Finns will fight to the death. Which contradicts the previous idea of an easy Russian success and might involve Russia in a hard military struggle.

I refuse to believe that Stalin wants that at any price, for two good reasons. First, whether he is an imperialist or a revolutionary, the present state of world affairs demands imperatively that he play a waiting policy and let the other powers exhaust themselves, if they will be so good—but, anyway, a waiting policy. Second, Soviet Russia is in no position to support an onerous war.

It is therefore thought here in some quarters that, if the Finns hold fast, the Russians will not push the attack home, and peace terms can be made on a basis that would give Stalin some extra defenses for Leningrad but would

40,000 Reserves Are Called Up; Territorial Waters Are Mined.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 5.—(P)—Sweden strengthened her military and civilian defenses today and sped negotiations for a new government to present a united front in efforts to preserve her neutrality before the Russian-Finnish war crisis.

In a day marked by a steadily increasing tempo in offices where employees were called to military service and in grave conversations in private and official quarters were these developments:

1. About 40,000 men were called to the colors from 14 classes of military reserves between the ages of 21 and 34, for "wartime service." The additions brought the number of men under arms to about 150,000 compared to the normal standing force of 20,000.

2. The government announced the mining of Swedish territorial waters opposite the Finnish-owned Åland islands in the Baltic "in order to make supervision easier for the Swedish neutrality guard."

The mining, in conjunction with Finnish fortifications in the Åland islands, effectively closed the Gulf of Bothnia to the Russian fleet.

3. Premier Per Albin Hansson acknowledged negotiations were being pressed for a cabinet which would include conservatives and liberals with the present labor-farmer parties.

Political sources said Foreign Minister Richard J. Sandler likely would resign in favor of Arvid Richert, a conservative, now minister to Berlin.

Scores Seek To Enlist, But Passport Difficulties May Pray them.

ROME, Dec. 5.—(P)—Scores of Italians sought to enlist in the Finnish army today to fight against the Russians.

Applications poured into the Finnish legation as police prevented 1,000 university students from marching upon the Soviet embassy to express their sympathy for Finland.

Many young Italians appeared at the Finnish legation in person to offer their services.

The prospects of any Italian volunteers going to Finland was considered slight in diplomatic circles because of the difficulty in obtaining passports while Italy is intent on defending her own territory.

Finnish Minister Eero Järnefelt told applicants their services would be gladly accepted if they found means of reaching Finland.

Grey-clad, steel-helmeted soldiers stood in doorways around the Russian embassy as the students marched toward the building.

Friendship for the United States was shown by the students who cheered as they passed the United States consulate.

HOOVER TO DIRECT RELIEF FOR FINNS

Agrees To Set Up Organization To Seek Aid for Homeless.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—(UP)—Former President Herbert Hoover has undertaken to set up an organization to appeal for and co-ordinate American contributions for the homeless of Finland, it was disclosed here tonight.

Aroused by Russia's "assault on Finland," and the plight of Finnish women and children driven out of their homes by Soviet bombs, Hoover agreed to the task after a telephone conversation with Hjalmar J. Procope, Finnish minister in Washington.

Mr. Hoover won fame as chairman of the commission for the relief of Belgium during the World War.

White Finds Berlin People Are Fat, Pink and Healthy

By WILLIAM L. WHITE.
Special Correspondent.
BERLIN, Germany.—(By mail.) This town is for the present adequately fed, and I have no use for the three kilos of butter and sweet chocolate which I brought in from Italy, and still less for the vitamin pills.

The people in the streets seem fat, pink and healthy. But they are no over-fed. The food tickets, which are doled out weekly to residents of hotels, allow each person 500 grams of meat a week. When you know that a fairly good sized pork chop weighs 100 grams, and also that Germany has two meatless days a week (Monday and Friday) when no one is permitted to buy or serve it, this would seem to allow only five meals a week. But remember that fish and fowl are not considered meat and are not rationed, and you may buy and eat them in unlimited quantities.

Bread is also rationed, and yet I defy any one to eat the entire amount to which he is entitled.

EXCLUSIVE

every week. Most Germans have at least a quarter of their bread cards left over at the end of the week. Although Germany is short on sugar, it is not directly rationed except that hotels may buy only limited quantities and sometimes the sugar bowl is empty by the end of the day. Still more curiously, you need no cards to buy the rich coffee-cake and pastry of which Germans are so fond, and which seem heavy with sugar, eggs and fat. You may eat all you can buy.

Butter is another matter. Rations are very skimpy and I have divided my supply so that I get two small curls of it—each about as big as your thumbnail—on my breakfast tray to spread on my roll. In this way my butter cards just come out even at the end of the week. And you may have one egg a week.

But vegetables, potatoes, fish, wines, beer and many other sundries are not rationed at all and you may get them in unlimited quantities if you have the money.

FINE FOR KIDNEY AND BLADDER WEAKNESS

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS AND FEEL YOUNGER

Keep your blood more free from waste matter, poisons and acid by putting more activity into kidneys and bladder, and you should live a healthier, happier and longer life.

One efficient, safe and harmless way to do this is to get from your druggist a 35 cent box of Gold Medal Haasliem Oil Capsules and take them as directed—the swift results should delight you.

Besides getting up nights, some symptoms of kidney trouble may be backache, shifting pains, puffy eyes. Don't be an EASY MARK and accept a substitute—Ask for Gold Medal Haasliem Oil Capsules—right from Haasliem in Holland. GET GOLD MEDAL—the original—the genuine. Look for the Gold Medal on the box—35 cents.

But how many people have, outside those who can afford to live at the better hotels? How often can a worker whose salary is $16 a week afford chicken? Can he afford to buy his limit of the rationed butter when it costs 70 cents a pound? The answer is that, of course, he can't; so many German families get along on no butter at all, and can afford that only once a week although they would be allowed to have it five times.

Rationing Holds Prices Low.
The rationing system, of course, helps to keep down prices. Without it, a rich man might eat meat 14 times a week. But since he is allowed only 100 grams (the equivalent of a pork chop) five times a week, there remains a surplus which the middle classes are able to buy.

Newspaper men stationed in Berlin receive regularly from the propaganda minister an extra allotment of meat and butter cards. And why not? The German nation chooses to starve itself for the honor and glory of lording it over Czechs, Slovaks and Poles, which is their business.

On the other hand the American newspaper men do not have the deep spiritual consolations which come from ruling Poles and feeling superior to Czechs, so I see reason why they should not have the right to eat whatever they can pay for—a right which would be theirs if they were stationed in any other country. After all, the American newspapermen didn't start this war, and there is no reason why they should be punished because they are working here.

Restrictions Minor Nuisance.
There is also every reason why, if they are living on a special diet, they should not write glowing stories about how well fed the German people are. For this reason I have been living on the regular German diet, so I can report that the average German, if he has money, is decently and most adequately fed, and the restrictions are only a minor nuisance.

From the looks of the people and the stores about me, and from general reports on German food reserves (supposedly much greater than they were in the last war) I should say that the blockade will not seriously affect the nutrition of these people for at least two years, and would guess that the pinch will come in such war supplies as rubber, oil and minerals far sooner than it will be felt in food.

I saw what they were eating when the 1918 armistice was signed, a diet of sawdust bread, cabbage and a few potatoes, and I know what they can live and fight on if they want to. How long they will want to is, of course, a question no one can answer.

KUHN IS SENTENCED TO SING SING PRISON

Bund Leader Gets 2 1-2 to 5 Years; Associates Face Perjury Action.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Fritz Kuhn was sentenced today to two and a half to five years in Sing Sing prison for stealing funds from his pro-Nazi German-American Bund, and the prosecution was directed to take action against two of his most faithful followers for what the court declared was their "patent perjury" in his defense.

Kuhn's conviction, on three counts of larceny and two of forgery, had left him open to a possible maximum penalty of 30 years.

The two Bundsmen against whom the judge directed action were James Wheeler-Hill, national secretary, and Willy Luedtke, of Lodi, N. J., official of the German-American Business League, Bund affiliate. Assistant District Attorney Herman McCarthy said action would be taken.

Both had gone all the way for Kuhn on the witness stand. Wheeler-Hill had testified that under the "leadership principle" Kuhn could do as he pleased with Bund funds.

Luedtke had supported the leaders' claim he had paid to James D. C. Murray, private attorney, a $500 fee prosecution proved to the satisfaction of the jury never was paid.

RUMANIA PROBING POSSIBLE SABOTAGE

BUCHAREST, Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Rumanian government today started investigations into damage to oil plants and train wrecks which some political circles attributed to sabotage by foreign agents.

The million dollar British-owned Orion refinery at Ploesti was still burning after an explosion and fire which destroyed the plant and 200 cars of oil on sidings.

Several other carloads of oil burned Sunday after a collision of two tankcar trains which killed two persons.

A train wreck near Sibiu last week killed 20 workmen.

BELGIAN SAYS TAXES PREFERRED TO WAR

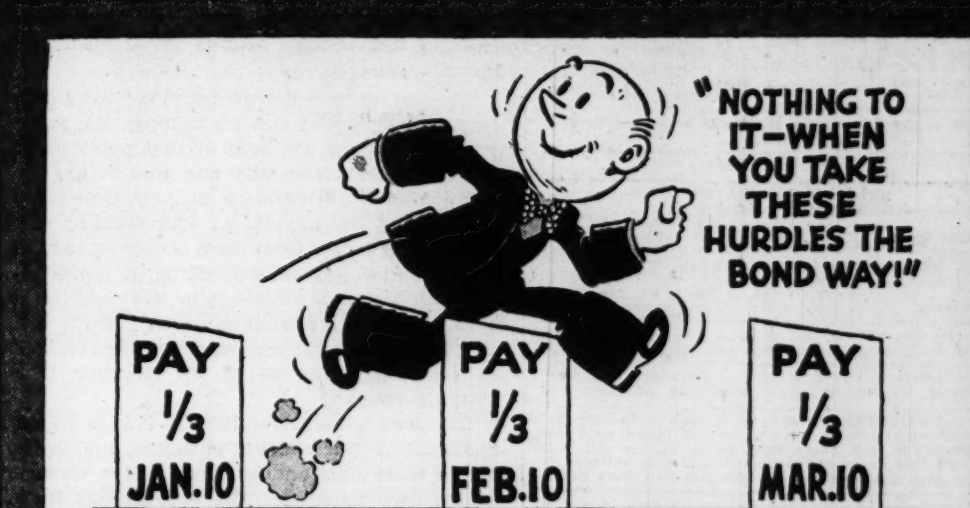

BRUSSELS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Prime Minister Hubert Pierlot, addressing the chamber of deputies today, urged acceptance of new taxes because economies must be subordinated to independence.

"It is better to be in serious financial condition than in a war," he said. "What is important now is defense of the country."

Cries of "Long live Finland" were raised in chamber when a Communist deputy arose to protest against postponement of a debate on government policy.

The Pattern Forms

There is fateful inevitability in the fast-moving pattern of world alignments and world diplomacy today. The nations are, seemingly, taking their places on either side of a line-up of powers that can result in but one thing, eventually. That one thing is a struggle to the death between those ideologies which rely upon ruthless force to achieve world domination and those which dream of a world at peace, a world of free men co-operating together for the best welfare of all.

Yet, despite this seeming inevitability, there are clashing colors as the pattern forms, alliances which appear unnatural and unreal.

There is talk of a world group of powers united against Communism. A development, to be sure, which must some day come if the hideous specter of world revolution, which lurks half hidden behind Soviet borders, is not to become horrid reality.

Yet, in that world group, that speculated new anti-Comintern, there is included Britain, France, Italy, nations of the Balkans, Turkey and Japan. Can such a group ever reconcile its clashing ideals into a lasting, cohesive whole? Can Japan, ruled by a worshipful Mikado and controlled by a ruthless military machine, ever link hands with freedom-loving, democratic France and Britain? Maybe an alliance of convenience, as in the World War, but it is from just such alliance that the seeds of future wars are sown.

It is not so surprising to find Italy, once partner with Germany in the Axis group, turning more and more against her erstwhile ally and growing more and more irate against the Soviet. The Axis partnership was never popular with the people of Italy, no matter how convenient it may have been for the Italian government. Italians, as a race, do not like Germans, and it was always difficult to conceive those nations as marching effectively and loyally side by side.

The plans in Stalin's mind emerge with accelerating rapidity. The unprovoked attack on little Finland, the demand for ports from Sweden and the mounting truculence of Soviet spokesmen give weighty evidence Stalin may well be moving toward that Communistic "world revolution," which has ever been the ultimate goal of the Reds.

Now come the republics of Latin America, not threatening war, of course, but adding their voices to the chorus of world condemnation against Russia.

The truth becomes ever more clear. German Nazism, the policies of Hitlerism, constitute a menace to human liberty, to truth and to democracy, which must be crushed. The world can know no peace, no security, so long as a nation's power lies in the hands of a man like Hitler or a government like the Nazi.

Behind this first problem, however, lies a more menacing and an even darker cloud, the threat of Communistic revolution for all the world. Eventually that threat must be answered, that menace halted.

It may well be the day is coming which shall see the German people, cleansed of their own plague of Nazidom, aligned with the forces of freedom against the Russia of Stalinism and the Soviet.

In the meantime it would be well if the United States, and all its citizens, firmly renewed determination to stay out of the war conflagration that seems to be spreading, like a forest fire, over half the world.

There are still the oceans to keep us immune to that spreading fire. There is still a duty to perform in maintaining sanctuary for humanity's interrupted dream of universal freedom and lasting peace.

No crack in days has been heard concerning good old Neville's umbrella. There are ribs left in it, of course, but this is no time for levity.

Warring on the innumerable Chinese is a lot like Chinese checkers. You can jump them, but they're still all around you.

A starch scarcity besets the laundries of

2,000,000 Jobs Waiting

Two million more men will find jobs in 1940 than were able to place themselves during 1939. This is the consensus of opinion revealed by a survey of 300 of the nation's most important business and industrial executives and hundreds of the nation's leading personnel managers.

The survey was recently conducted by The American Magazine and its findings are made public in the current issue of that publication.

Really competent men and women are already in urgent demand by business, the survey reveals, and the number of opportunities now ready is far larger than most people realize. It is stated that, generally speaking, it is the incompetent and mediocre who are finding it hard, today, to secure employment. There are, of course, individual exceptions to this rule, but as a general summary of the situation it is accurate enough.

The men whose responsibility it is to fit the applicant to the job, the personnel managers, report three outstanding facts in the current employment situation. The first is that there are thousands of openings which call for no previous experience by the applicant. This they attribute to the growth of the promoting-from-within policy in American business which results in plenty of openings at the bottom for ambitious young people who like to advance.

Secondly, hundreds of business firms have vacancies today they have been unable to fill, because they can't find the people with the requisite qualifications.

And, third, there is a pressing demand for competent mechanics. The top-rank skilled mechanic is still the most sought-after and independent man in the American economic picture.

Of special interest to men and women who have still to find jobs, both young and older, the following extracts from personal views by prominent executives on the employment situation should prove of vital interest:

"There seems to be a dearth of really competent persons."

"Despite all the school and college courses in business training, despite the numerous business colleges, competent stenographers are difficult to find. One in 25 is passable."

"Experienced people are in demand now as much as, if not more than, they have been. Men with executive ability and foresight and imagination are not easy to find."

"We have the greatest difficulty in securing competent salesmen."

"We have difficulty in getting people willing to learn."

"There is a definite shortage of skilled help in the metal-working industry."

And so forth.

The picture given, by the survey, is highly encouraging to all would-be employees and, likewise, lends evidence to the belief that the next few months will see a rapid shrinkage in unemployment totals and a consequent lightening of the load of public relief of all types.

Those 2,000,000 new jobs which are to be filled during 1940 should contribute a lot to the national income and the economic prosperity of America.

American Way in Toyland

The packs of Santa Claus are bringing more than joy to American children this Christmas. The jolly saint with the red suit and white whiskers is pointing out to the youngsters the advantages of the American way of life. Toyland, with its $235,000,000 storehouse of fun for the holiday season, is seeking to symbolize the customs and ideals of the United States.

The idea was recently expressed by James L. Fri, managing director of the Toy Manufacturers of the United States of America. Fri said: "Tying in with the intense wish of Americans to remain at peace, the toylands of 1939 will place dominant emphasis on purposeful replicas of the American way of life. The yearning of all Americans for an improved standard of living is reflected in toy offerings which reproduce the finest types of housing, transportation, furniture, art and home-making equipment in low-priced miniatures."

Less than one per cent of toys for the holiday season are military in character, it was disclosed at the New York preview of the manufacturers' organization. There is a definite increase in farm toys, radio play sets, musical construction games, building units, quiz games and puzzles. Those perennial favorites of Santa Claus, dolls, show 40 periods of American history.

It is a heartening trend, this indication that even the nurseries are participating in the forward movement toward better living. The cradle is not too early a start for belief in the American way.

Because he doesn't play ball in the winter, a Cleveland infielder applies for the unemployment dole. If it works, the Brooklyn will try it next summer.

Nothing personal, Tokyo, but a new bacterial treatment is found by science to be a potent enemy of the Japanese beetle. Also, talk resumes of fortifying Guam.

"A famed movie blonde's skin is shown by chromatic tests to be a pale blue-green." Well, even the brightest among us have our mildewed days.

A late find of the tireless archeologists is a buried prehistoric hatchet weighing 145 pounds. Peacemakers must have run large in those times.

Editorial of the Day

THE U. S. CAN BE THANKFUL

(From the Savannah Morning News)
The United States can have a deep sigh of relief that the American merchant marine is not plying the European side of the Atlantic these days. From all indications, mines are as abundant in European waters as grains of rice in a bowl of chicken soup. If American ships were crossing the water, the chances are pretty high that at least one would have struck a mine by this time. For that section of the revised neutrality act which prevents ships of American registry from entering combat zones the United States can be thankful.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

F. D. R. KEEPS PROMISE WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—In accordance with the promise in his neutrality message, the President has sought the advice of congressional leaders of both parties on American policy in the current international crisis. Immediately after Russia's invasion of Finland, he called them on the telephone and discussed what had happened.

He told them he was under pressure to rebuke the Soviet Union's brutal grab either by promptly recalling our ambassador at Moscow or by abruptly breaking off all relations with the Soviet government. He said that he and Secretary of State Cordell Hull were both reluctant to take any drastic steps for the time being, and he asked the leaders' views. While Senator Key Pittman was all for strong steps, the cooler heads agreed with the President that a cautious foreign policy was the best foreign policy.

Thus, in his own quiet way, the President has made hash of the predictions of those who said that his neutrality message promise would never be kept. In his message, the President said he hoped to have a number of the leaders remain in Washington. The leaders themselves, however, wanted to go home. Sam Rayburn and Speaker William B. Bankhead longed for their pleasant Texan and Alabama winters. The senate chieftain, Alben Barkley, had fences to fix in Kentucky and Vice President John N. Garner had a presidential bond to tend and nourish. They arranged with the President to see on call by telephone, and this arrangement has been carried out.

THE PRESIDENT'S CONFIDANT Among the more numerous Democrats, the President could pick and choose. Among the Republicans, the senate leader, wise Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, was the President's natural confidant. Indeed, McNary has achieved a curious personal position. Although he is official chieftain of the senate opposition, he is so shrewd, tolerant and careless of partisanship that, whenever large national interests are at stake, the President and Democratic leaders freely admit him to their councils.

This has been repeatedly illustrated in these last difficult months. During the spring, when war began to threaten and the decision was reached to repeal the arms embargo, Secretary Hull called McNary to a Sunday conference in his hotel apartment. The two men are old cronies, and Hull frankly declared his intention to press for action in the arms embargo matter. He asked McNary how the Republicans would feel, and McNary said that he would find out and report. A few days later, after a round of talks with his flock, McNary dropped in on Hull to tell him that the regular session of congress could not be persuaded to take up the question.

This report was proved to be accurate to the letter by subsequent events. Then during the neutrality fight in the special session, McNary virtually became an unofficial member of the administration steering committee. He was against the administration himself, and on the senate floor and in the corridors he did everything he could to support his side. But he felt that he had an equal interest in "not letting the senate make a fool of itself," and he wanted the issue brought to an early test. Consequently, for example, he was at the White House when Vice President Garner reported on the state of the house, and participated in numerous other meetings of the same sort.

AS IT SHOULD BE This position which McNary has made for himself has real significance nowadays. Congress and the President are vital to the national welfare. McNary does not sacrifice his own opinions or weaken the proper force of the opposition by his open policy toward the other side. He only attempts to assure efficient and prompt consideration of problems in which partisanship has no place.

In truth, McNary's dealings with the Democratic leadership are the pattern of the relationship that should always exist between the leaders of the two parties when non-partisan issues are being considered. The penalties of a sterner Republicanism are obvious enough. In the house, for instance, the mere fact that Representative Hamilton Fish is senior Republican on the foreign affairs committee makes it impossible for the State Department to keep the committee adequately informed.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

A-Hunting Let Us Go.

Sam Hart was in the office a few days ago and the subject of Riding to Hounds came up. Sam, it developed, is an enthusiast and one of his dearest dreams is to see organization of a real hunt club, with a pack of hounds, Master of Hounds, Assistant Master of Hounds, Whippers In, Pink Coats and all in regulation style—in Atlanta.

Nereous activities of which I am grossly ignorant. So it proved rather fascinating to hear Sam talk about it. The upshot was he made me the loan of a bulky volume entitled "Hounds and Hunting Through the Ages," and I, as usual, had the idea I might, at least, be able to find one of these columns therefrom.

Now, a quandary has arisen. There is so much material it is too much for one column. Would require this space for several weeks to do the subject justice. And it is a frightening task to attempt intelligent concentration into one short column.

However, if you have never given much thought to this subject of hunting the fox with hounds and horses and all the formal accessories, you've got a lot to learn. I can assure of that much. Reading that book leaves the impression it would take several years to learn all the details of the things you must do, and the things you must leave undone, if you are to be a properly rule-observing member of the hunt. Every little item has a reason.

"First, did you know there is a good reason why the huntsmen wear pink coats? They've been wearing that color for centuries. So they can be easily seen in any kind of country, that's the very intelligent reason for bright pink jackets. Before pink became the accepted color, they wore other brightly-hued coats—bright blue, green or gaily-striped affairs. All a matter of easily noticed colorization. And the precedent that surrounded some of those uniforms, in famous English Hunts, is something tremendous, even to this day."

Interesting, isn't it? But that is barely a scratching of the surface. I'll try and hold on to the book for a few more days and, perhaps, dig another column out about Hounds and Hunting.

hound pack. You are apt to kill valuable hounds, and, at best, to confuse them while casting, or seeking the scent of the fox. And, when the hounds are casting or the M. F. H. is trying to locate whence comes the cry of the pack following the fox, the individual who rides too close, so that noises of the horse interfere, or the hounds are disturbed, is another sinner.

No one should ride a horse he can't completely control. And the field should never call to the hounds or indulge in any other cries of the chase. That is the duty of the hunt staff.

Of course, this is the merest introduction to the subject. But I think you'll be interested in some evidence adduced, purporting to show that the fox actually enjoys being hunted and regards it as a game.

"Personally," writes Joseph B. Thomas, M. F. H., the author, "I believe the fox enjoys it as much as anyone. The abyss of death means nothing to an animal; instinct alone impels him to run or fight, and the fox in his flight seems rarely worried. Sometimes he may almost be credited with a sense of humor. . . an interesting story of a fox amusing himself in front of a single hound hunting in the snow. There was a frozen crust which held up the fox but he pursued, who repeatedly broke through. The chase crossed where tree stumps were numerous, and the fox would run ahead of the struggling hound, hop onto a stump, where he would calmly sit like a king on his throne, until his frantic pursuer came within a few feet, when he would run on to the next stump, and repeat the performance."

Interesting, isn't it? But that is barely a scratching of the surface. I'll try and hold on to the book for a few more days and, perhaps, dig another column out about Hounds and Hunting.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today. From the news columns of Sunday, December 8, 1899: "There will be just one exception to the all-American dressed woman in next spring and summer—that will be a fad for embroidered top boots, decreed in Paris. Skirts will be six inches from the ground."

And Fifty Years Ago. From the news columns of Friday, December 8, 1899: "A remarkable deposit of gold has been discovered in Montgomery county, North Carolina. One man in two hours got 2,000 pennyweights of gold."

'Mutiny' on Campus. In Fredericksburg, Va., Miss Alice Bartow and "Mutiny" have gone Mary and her little lamb one better.

Miss Bartow, of "Halfway House," near Philadelphia, is a student at Mary Washington college and, because they have been inseparable companions for 10 years, she brought her horse, "Mutiny," along with her. Mutiny has not only followed her to school, but has made trips to California with Miss Bartow and has taken prizes in horse shows there.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

'Doc' Is NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Doc Robinson, son of Moscow, Idaho, who says he talked with God and got rich in almost no time, is not perturbed by insinuations that he came by his title by working as clerk in a Moscow drug store. To such canards he replies that he got a D. D. from the College of Divine Metaphysics of Indianapolis and a Ph. D. from Voltaire University of Paris, France. But that's nothing. The Doc's religious philosophy, known as Psychiana, on sale at $20 for the 11-months course, payable in easy installments, has a wider charter, so he says, than the University of Idaho. He says the university can't give Ph. D.'s, but that he can. If he wanted to he could append to his own name enough letters to spell antitotalitarianism. But he doesn't want to. Doc is title enough for him.

Nor is he envious of other current operators in the God business. His trade is growing, and the other merely amuse him, except when they crib his stuff. And, as he himself said in discussing a rival whom he regards as a rather harmless imposter, there is little that the authorities can do to interfere with the God business if a man is ordinarily prudent and knows the law.

A number of smart individuals have canvassed the opportunities and the legal conditions and have discovered that almost any goblin call called a religion may enjoy immunity from intrusion, molestation and most taxes. Otherwise you would have religious persecution in a free country, and public opinion would never stand for that.

Sex Feared The deadliest defect in religious promotions is sex.

The Doc's own stuff, as he calls it, cannot be challenged on such grounds, because Psychiana does not counsel sexual impurity—a same phylaxian. And, rather oddly, the more prominent competing spiritualisms of the present hour require the faithful to forego sex altogether. On the other hand, this trend is not as odd as it may seem. In other years ephemeral movements were led by lively roosters who were after the money, to be sure, but carried on sidelines which got them into trouble with the law.

So a wise God man of today, scanning the difficulties of those who went before, forebids interference by adorning his followers to put such thoughts away. Moreover, young people are not likely to have money or to be desperate for faith and hope. So the joiners are mostly subdued persons beyond middle age, with some accumulation of inheritance of wealth, perhaps the insurance on a departed spouse, to toss upon the drum while in the throes. It works out very nicely.

Admires As every businessman should, the Doc knows the laws pertaining to his line, and, again, as every alert businessman should, he keeps posted on the activities and the type of goods handled by other operators in the same field. Of Father Divine, the colored God man, he spoke in a tone of professional admiration.

"That fellow," he said, "is the king pin of them all. But I don't get his stuff. I just don't get it at all." You will note that he spoke of the operators as "them." He didn't "use all." He doesn't regard himself as one of "them." He is the genuine God man, the one who talked with God, "actually and literally," as his advertisements say, whereas of the others the best that can be said is that they are mistaken.

Some of them may sincerely believe that they have talked with God, that they are God's exclusive messengers, or, indeed, that they are God. But the joke is on them and their followers, and it would be worth something to delude the look on the faces of the deluded when they wake up dead and discover that they were mulling after false gods and donated their savings, jewelry and real estate as "love gifts" to impostors.

Will Not Be Gyped The Doc is jovial, but he is no victim of sentiment in dealing with disciples who are deadbeats or slow pay. He will not be gyped by gyps. Not the Doc.

Last February a delinquent Psychiana student got a letter from a collection agency in Wilmington, Del., which said: "Dear Madam: The school has reported your payment of $3.50, which reduces this balance to $5. We want that balance no later than March 4. Frankly, it is immaterial whether you settle with us or with the school's attorney, but a lawsuit will mean both unpleasantness and expense to you. For your own protection, therefore, have the balance here by the date mentioned."

That was telling her where to get off. And if the manner sounds uncharitable and not quite divine, after all, Psychiana is Doc Robinson's own God stuff. He got it up. It is his property, and he turns delinquents over to the agency in the routine course of business, as any sound businessman would.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"EXPOSING" THE JUNIOR LEAGUE There are a lot of stories going around our town in connection with this "Gone-With-the-Wind" business. Some of them have been critical of the Junior League members because the Junior League committee is promoting the ball which is to be held in connection with the premiere of the movie of Miss Peggy Mitchell's book.

I know so little about the Junior League that it seemed important to find out about it. Having done so, it seems to me the League should, in a manner of speaking, be exposed.

It probably is, viewed in the most impartial manner, the most worth-while women's organization in Atlanta and I can prove it. But first I wanted to clear away all this talk about tickets to the ball. Some of the stories around town were the Junior League had taken most of the tickets for their members and put only a small number on sale.

Well, the truth is the Junior League committee is catching hot words from some of its own members because it did not do just that. It could have been done legitimately. It is the promotion of the Junior League. It is true they didn't realize what they had. Neither did anyone else. Mayor Hartsfield and the Community Fund committee were, for a time, worried for fear they couldn't sell out the theater at $10 per ticket. They could have sold out at $50 a ticket as fast they did at $10.

Not all the Junior League members have tickets. Not by any means. Only those who had sent in reservations got them. The others were put on sale—all of them.

The ticket sale, an impossible problem, was handled honestly and on the level.

That seems to be what is wrong with the ticket sale. The League didn't go to the trouble of seeing to it that "the right people" got tickets.

A VALUABLE CONTRIBUTION It may be true that the noses of a few members are tilted a bit too high. I rarely look at noses and don't know.

But what I do know is that no other women's organization in Atlanta contributes as much to the community. They work. The work is not as difficult as clerking, but it is work, and it is volunteer work by persons most of whom, at least, do not have to do anything at all. The League probably includes its own pro rata share of frivolous and snobbish persons but the number is at a minimum, and snobbishness and frivolousness, Heaven knows, is not restricted to any group or class.

The League maintains four chief welfare projects with an annual charity budget of a bit more than $8,000.

The activities of the League, undecorated and factual, are as follows:

1—Junior League ward at the Henrietta Eggleston Memorial Hospital for Children.

Maintenance of beds for charity patients. Volunteers serve as ward aides, hostesses, office assistants, roll bandages and do social service work.

2—Junior League thyroid clinic at Grady hospital.

Established six years. Presided over by medical and surgical staffs. All nursing, testing, follow-up work done by Junior League volunteers. Exhibits won prizes at Georgia Medical Society and Southern Medical Association. Last year exhibited at American Medical Association meeting.

Maintain the Junior League reference section at the Abner Calhoun Medical library at Emory University.

Have given research scholarships to students at Emory University.

3—Family guidance service.

Professional psychiatric group provided to Family Welfare Society for three years. Next year will be taken over by Family Society. Illustrates aim of Leagues to pioneer in a project, have this need recognized by the committee and taken over by them, leaving the League free to pioneer in a new field.

4—The Junior League School of Speech Correction.

Only training in section for children with speech defects. Need very great. One hundred fifty children enrolled; 75 now being taught. Two paid professional teachers. Junior League director also had professional training. Assistants, clerical work, etc., done by Junior League volunteers.

In addition, there is service by 75 to 100 girls in the Community Fund work, in the Red Cross club, Poppy Day, cancer control, and so on.

There are 114 girls who do volunteer work in welfare agencies such as Child and Family Welfare, Hillside Cottages, day nurseries, Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children, and so on.

IT ALL ADDS UP It all adds up to the fact that the League attempts, and does, a good work when it could be entirely social.

It got hold of an attraction some 15,000 persons or more wanted to attend and it handled the tickets honestly and without attempting to play favorites.

The result is those who thought they should have been "cared for" are upset, and those who wanted to buy tickets and found them all sold, also are piqued.

I don't even know the names of the officers of the League and no one has asked or suggested that I busy myself with looking into the situation and doing a piece about it. They are doing the best they can. Their mistake, if it was one, was not in failing to take care of their members and friends, but in failing to have the WPA put rubber walls in the auditorium when they did it over.

Has anyone looked? Maybe the WPA did.

A Fable Concerning a Reform Movement in the Jungle

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The rabbits in the jungle had no protection except their speed, and might have been exterminated long ago had they been less prolific. Since time immemorial they had advocated a law to prohibit the eating of rabbit meat, but they made no progress until the boss lion, who preferred heavier meat anyway, decided to champion their cause in the name of social justice.

He called for a general election, in which all creatures should vote for rabbit meat or against rabbit meat, and began to go to and fro making speeches.

The foxes, who were very fond of rabbit meat, were both alarmed and indignant. They said the boss lion had lost his mind and deserted his class. The boss fox began to make speeches, too, and the jungle was filled with noisy debate.

One night the boss lion, carried away by his own oratory, roared: "I tell you it is shameful to kill any little creature that creeps on the ground."

"Do you mean turtles, too?" demanded a sly fox heckler.

"Yes, I do," roared the lion.

The fox chuckled in triumph, for all the meat-eaters were fond of newly-hatched turtles.

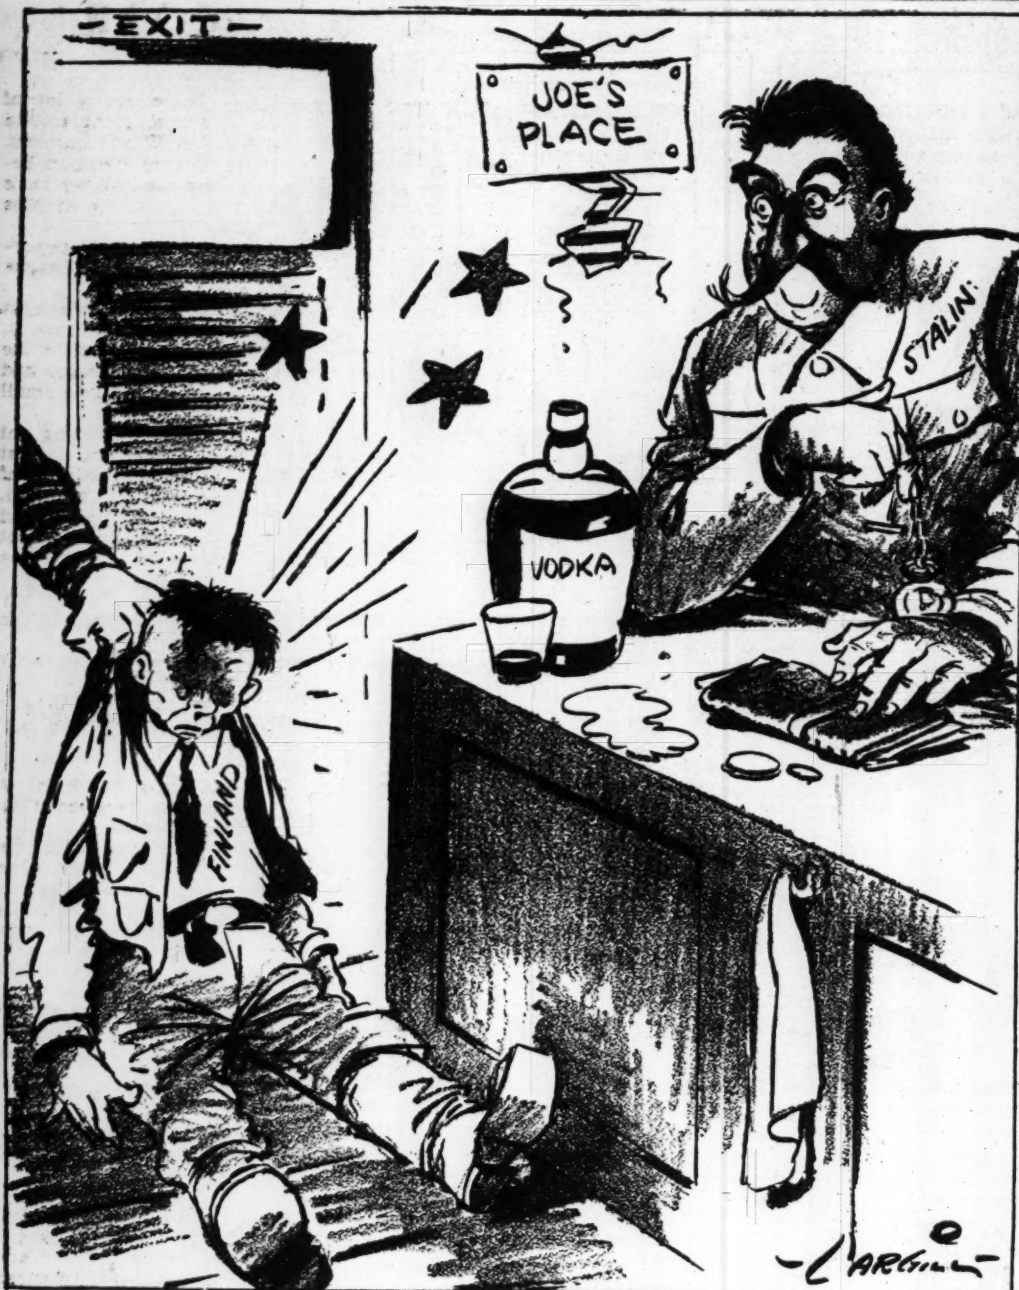

The lions say we shouldn't kill turtles and everybody knows the turtle is a reptile. Does my honorable opponent mean that we shouldn't kill snakes?"

The boss lion was flustered, but answered stoutly: "Snakes are good citizens if they are not poisonous."

"Liar!" barked a she fox. "A snake without poison once entered my den and swallowed my new-born young."

One summer day a lion felt a pain in one paw and soon thereafter died. "It was a poisonous thorn," said his friends. But the foxes and their friends all said a snake had bitten him.

This question was debated furiously until election day arrived. When the creatures had assembled for the election, an old raccoon who served as chairman stood on his hind legs and said: "The question to be decided is whether the lion died of a poison thorn or snake bite."

"Mickey Finn?"

SIAM EXECUTES GROUP OF ALLEGED PLOTTERS

BANGKOK, Dec. 5.—(P)—A group of alleged plotters against Siam's 14-year-old King Ananda were executed today. They were charged with conspiracy to overthrow the boy-king and restore his uncle and predecessor, Prajadhipok.

Numerous arrests and the "retirement" of more than 50 high army officers on January 29 was followed by convening of a special court which passed the sentences. Prajadhipok abdicated March 2, 1935, and Ananda became king with a regency to rule during his minority.

GETS LEGION POST

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 5.—(P)—Arthur B. Dillon, prominent leader in American Legion affairs in the state, received notice yesterday he had been appointed to the National Employment and Veterans Preference Committee by National Commander Raymond Kelly, of Detroit. Dillon is "first division commander" of Georgia Legionnaires.

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

AMERICANS.

With so large a portion of the youth of the world overshadowed by the dark clouds of war, it is doubly refreshing to see the youth of America marching forward in wholesome expectation of lives of peaceful pursuit. And whilst we have stubborn facts with which to deal as we contemplate the future of our own young people, we may well give thanks that the advantage seems definitely on the side of progress for their day and generation.

This heartening thought came vividly to mind last Saturday afternoon, when, between halves at the Georgia-Tech game, the bands of the two schools entertained the 30-odd thousand spectators with their rollicking tunes, their alma mater hymns, and as the climax of it all, the two bands forming a solid unit, the colors of the institutions beautifully blended, and their instruments joined in perfect concord playing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

They had exhibited beautiful courtesy one to another in playing the respective college songs, and for the finale they rose above group loyalties to unite their tribute and devotion in the national anthem.

Whether you think of youth today in terms of their physical fitness, their mental alertness, or their spiritual quest, you are bound to be convinced that the wisest investment of time and money and influence and sympathy and love which may anywhere be bestowed is in the lives of these wonderful young people. The America of tomorrow needs a generation of strong men and women.

Sinister influences are subtly at work to sow down the fertile minds of today's youth with doctrines that would quickly undo all that our fathers have achieved in this nation. Shall these sly foxes be allowed to pass unchallenged through the fields of our youth? There is a certain type of so-called liberalism in our nation which insists that parents and teachers and friends of youth generally must retreat from our rightful spheres of service and leave to these self-appointed exploiters of youth their campaign of un-American ideas and ideals. I am happy to believe that there is an aroused public opinion just now which will wisely and courageously say to all such propagandists, "You shall not pass."

And to youth, let us say in deeds that certify our sincere loyalty. "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth," for, life's sure contract with God is in your signature.

Nation's Healthiest Are Selected in Chicago Contest

Four boys and two girls were selected as the healthiest youths in the United States yesterday at the annual contest of state 4-H Club champions in Chicago. Picked from representatives of all parts of the country, this year's winners are, left to right, Richard Crane, 17, Rushville, Ind.; Warren Cales, 18, Sandstone, W. Va.; Ruth Fitzreiter, 16, Bel, La.; Joann Parks, 15, Liberty, Ind.; Carlisle Klein, 18, Black River Falls, Wis., and Leslie Warrant, 16, Kasota, Minn.

GEORGIA CLUB GIRL WINS SCHOLARSHIP

Clara Nell Lavendar Gets Canning Award; Health Champions Named.

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—(P)—Five girls attending the National 4-H Club Congress have been awarded $200 scholarships for putting up 31,838 pints of fruits, vegetables, and meats in the last eight years.

With champions of 29 other states, they will be the guests at a breakfast to be given tomorrow by Mrs. Ruth A. Kerr, president of a glass jar company and patroness of the annual canning competition.

Those who were awarded scholarships included: Clara Nell Lavendar, 18, Jefferson, Ga., who canned 4,976 pints of food in six years. Her work was estimated to be worth $400.

Over 9,000 Pints. Constance Ruggieri, 18, Providence, R. I., whose eight-year record covered the canning of 9,362 pints of vegetables, fruits and preserves valued at $1,778.40.

Four boys and two girls were declared America's healthiest 4-H Club youths today in the annual contest of the state champions. The winners were Warren Cales,

MISS CLARA NELL LAVENDAR, Georgia Winner.

18, Sandstone, W. Va.; Richard Crane, 17, Rushville, Ind.; Carlisle W. Klein, 18, Black River Falls, Wis.; Leslie G. Warrant, 16, Kasota, Minn.; Miss Ruth Fitzreiter, 16, Bel, La., and Miss Joann Parks, 15, Liberty, Ind.

Mayfield Kothmann's brown and white Hereford, "Lucky Boy II," was selected as the grand champion of the 2,000 purebred steers entered in the fortieth annual International Livestock Exposition. It was the tenth since the grand championship was established in 1900 that a Hereford, considered by stockmen as an ideal range animal, captured the purple and gold ribbon.

First Attempt. Kothmann, an 18-year-old 4-H Club boy from Mason, Texas, entered international competition for the first time this year.

The steer weighed in for competition at 1,240 pounds, and Kothmann may realize more than $4,000 on it at the public auction Thursday.

Another Texas Hereford, "Texas State Fair," owned and exhibited by Jack Baker, of Bluff Dale, won the reserve grand championship. Exposition officials said it was the first time in the show's history that Texas steers carried off both the grand championship and the reserve.

Another 4-H Club stock raiser, 18-year-old Roger Amsler, of Rensselaer, Ind., won the exposition's premier hog prize when his 298-pound Hampshire barrow was picked as grand champion.

NOE PROBE STARTS FISTS TO SWINGING

Fight Starts When Foe of Earl Long Tries to Photograph Records.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—(P)—Fists flew and blows were landed today in the hot Louisiana political campaign when State Senator James A. Noe, an opponent of Governor Earl K. Long, took up his position to photograph the Orleans parish voters registration books. Both Noe and Long are gubernatorial candidates in the January 16 Democratic primary.

In the fracas, occurring in the midst of scores of milling spectators in the civil courts building, two men were arrested and charged with disturbing the peace, a third man was socked in the mouth and a woman slapped the face of the man who did the socking.

Noe promptly at 9 a. m. set up his special photographic equipment in the office of Civil Sheriff Louis Knop Jr., and started taking pictures of the books when a fight broke out.

Patrolman Robert Askew, of the fourth precinct, stopped the swinging and arrested George Coogan, a Long man, and Edward G. Milliet, a Noe man.

AUTOMOBILE CRASH TAKES SECOND VICTIM

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 5.—(P)—Luther D. Evans Jr., injured in an automobile collision that claimed the life of Mrs. Robert Nonk last week, died today. He was a son of a city councilman.

UNCLE REMUS GROUP MEETS TOMORROW

Luncheon To Commemorate 91st Birthday of Joel Chandler Harris.

The Uncle Remus Memorial Association will commemorate the ninety-first birthday of Joel Chandler Harris, immortal creator of the "Uncle Remus" folklore stories, at a luncheon at 1 o'clock at the Georgian Terrace. Dr. Thomas H. English, of Emory University, will be the speaker, and Lucien Harris Sr., recently elected chairman of the men's advisory committee of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, will preside. There will be a business meeting before the luncheon.

Other guests will be the following members of the men's advisory committee and their wives: Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Harris Sr., Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Brittain, Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Cox, Dr. and Mrs. Willis A. Sutton, Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Melton, Dr. and Mrs. A. L. Branham, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. McCord, Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Harris Jr., Mr. and Mrs. A. McD. Wilson Jr., H. G. Hastings and Norman White.

The event also will observe the thirtieth anniversary of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association. In 1909 Mrs. A. McD. Wilson was elected president for life, and the home was purchased from the heirs and made into a shrine to which thousands of visitors come each year. The Uncle Remus Memorial Association is believed the only woman's organization that has functioned under one president for 30 years.

KISS AFTER MIDNIGHT

Astrid Writes That She Is Arranging A Divorce, Not Mentioning Braggonier

By Margaret Gorman Nichols.

SYNOPSIS: Faith Gardner, orphaned as a child, is raised by an aunt in New England village. She is a stenographer in a factory and when her aunt dies she goes to New York. Lonely, jobless sometimes, after two years she and Gretchen Cole turn a small apartment. Faith is then a secretary in the firm of which Walter Edmonds is vice president. Gretchen, who left an Ohio town after a shattered romance, is a stylist in a big store. Greg Heath, employed by the Edmonds firm, takes her to a cocktail party given by Edmonds and his wife Astrid. Walter presents her to Franz Braggonier, musician and composer, whom Astrid met in Hawaii. She is in love with him and plans to divorce Walter. Even before she meets Carl Edmonds, Walter's brother, famous as an aviator, she is in love with him. As she leaves, the Edmonds' prettily, heartbroken, 16-year-old daughter, Sue, meets her, saying she has run away from school again. She likes Faith and at her suggestion Walter makes her his secretary. He asks her to win Sue's confidence and suggest how to handle her. Faith despairs when Carl says he will never marry because of her roving, hazardous life. Astrid suddenly, as in Faith's mind, Walter's problem of getting rid of Walter. Gretchen is promoted to Paris buyer and refuses to marry Philip Turner, who had quit hard drinking when he met her. Sue is desperate, she refuses to elope with young Michael Britton and she said he wouldn't see her again. Walter asks Faith to take Sue to Florida. Carl kisses Faith for the first time but she knows he won't marry her. Now go on with the story:

INSTALLMENT XXIV. Faith went to Walter's sitting room, a wide room, the furnishings new and modern, the night breeze from the sea cooling it. Her fears grew. When she stood still, he came to her and from his pocket took an envelope and slipped a letter from it.

"I want you to read this, Faith," he said, his usually calm, cheerful voice shaking.

Taking the letter, she glanced up at it briefly, seeing that his lean jaw was set in the way she had seen Carl's stern jaw set, and Sue's when she was hurt.

Walter walked to the window and she went to the white lamp and stood by it and read in Astrid's fine, cultivated handwriting:

"Walter, my dear, "I sit here and wonder how to tell you what I must tell you before your return. I feel we have come to the end of our marriage, that we have grown in opposite directions, have different tastes and interests and that to continue would be to endure and not to be happy. Believe me, Walter, this is not a sudden decision but one which has been painfully in the making for many months. "We are modern adult people to whom divorce should not be shocking. I could say so much about our good years together, your kindness, your generosity, my admiration for you.

"I have made my plans and there is only one thing I ask of you and that is, if you could, to permit Sue to visit me. On her I shall make no other demands since she has been wholly your child.

"I am leaving the apartment today and taking with me only personal things and I am not writing to Sue since I am sure either you or Miss Gardner can reach her with more understanding.

"Is it cowardly of me to do this while you are away, I wonder. It seems to me a far better way because we shall have no ugly scenes, no flaring of tempers, no cross words we would regret, no resumption of the past.

"I have told only Carl and Gilbert Forman. Though he is your friend as well as mine, he has reluctantly agreed to make arrangements in Reno for me.

"Walter, do not hate me and try to see that I have tried to meet this crisis in as dignified a way as I can. With all my heart I wish you well."

There was considerably more but Faith stopped reading because her hands were shaking and her face was hot. If only she dared to shout at Walter's back the truth that Astrid had not written: "She wants to marry Franz Braggonier. I saw them together. Oh, no, she doesn't mention him. She's protecting him. Oh, Walter, don't you see that a woman doesn't destroy a marriage after 17 years for such weak reasons?" But Walter turned before she said anything. He cleared his throat and spoke with obvious control. "I'll go back tomorrow, of course, and try to reason with her. Why didn't she tell me these things before? I've never been given the slightest reason to believe that she was unhappy. Different tastes and interests? That's absurd. All men and women have different tastes and interests. No two people are alike. This—this isn't like her. I don't understand it. It—it just doesn't make sense!"

Would she be wise or foolish to tell him? She did not know. Her heart ached for him and she was sick at the thought of his knowing that Astrid had cleverly shielded Franz Braggonier and that he alone had precipitated the carefully written letter in her hand.

"I can't advise you, Walter..." "No, of course you can't. I don't expect it." Suddenly the Edmonds' stubbornness brought anger to ease his hurt.

"Why should I go back and beg and ask for answers?" Walter said. "Why should I indeed?" He looked at Faith standing in a pool of light, her yellow frock spilling gracefully about her silver sandals...

"Astrid makes it clear that she won't see me and that she won't change her mind, doesn't she? I've done nothing in 17 years of marriage to deserve this.

"For some time I've felt that she was drifting toward the things and the people she liked. I've been busy, that's true, but I had no idea it was serious drifting. My business has never been more important than my home. This is a disaster. It's all the things I didn't know she was until now. No, I'm not going back. If she changes her mind, she can send for me."

Walter came forward and took the letter which Faith held out. Then he said, "And if she thinks better of this and comes back, it will be different the next time—after knowing you. We won't say anything to Sue tonight. I'll simply tell her that I've been able to prolong my holiday. Just now I don't know when I'll go back. I'll call Gilbert Forman, her attorney, on Monday from here."

Lowering his voice, he said intently, "Forgive me for telling and troubling you, Faith. I saw...

well, I saw red and I wanted to talk to somebody—to you. And now perhaps you'd better see if Sue is ready to go out to dinner. Tonight was to be our farewell celebration, a gay evening, wasn't it?" he asked bitterly.

"I'll see if Sue is back and dressed for dinner."

Hammers were pounding against Faith's mind as she walked down to the third floor. If only she did not know the truth! It was an imprisoned wild thing, crying to be free. And her thoughts were swiftly revolving—Astrid had told Carl. What had she told him? Was Astrid, desperate and plotting, incapable of the truth? Faith had an ugly mental picture of Astrid and Carl together and Astrid seeking sympathy and understanding from a brother-in-law who had always admired her. Was she, Faith, involved? How could she be? Yet again she felt that she had walked into a carefully placed trap.

Sue, wearing blue chiffon, was pinning a gardenia in her hair. "I thought maybe you and daddy had decided to stay in Palm Beach for dinner," she said gaily when Faith came in. "Daddy's last night..."

"No, he's going to stay," Faith said, going to the closet for her short, white silk wrap. "He decided a week wasn't long enough. He'll tell you about it."

"I hope he doesn't make us go back with him," Michael's plans were indefinite and yet he had said sweetly that when she left, he would not be long in following her. What lovely afternoons they had had! Never had she been so happy! And Polly Blakely had been grand, saying, "All right, I'll say that you were with me. I might need you to do me a favor some time. But don't get caught." But Sue knew that Polly, interested wholeheartedly in Pete Trader now, was glad because of her absence.

Walter was waiting downstairs for them and Sue did not notice that he had the look of a man who had suffered a shock and that he was unusually grave as they drove to the hotel where he had reserved a table for three.

They dined in a palm-fringed patio alive with music and colorful with the dancing frocks of beautifully dressed women. And beyond the patio was a garden fragrant and colorful with tropical flowers, and beyond that a path which led to the sea.

Her face bright, Sue said, "Dance with me, Daddy! They're playing one of my favorites. And everybody will think I'm your child-bride. You don't mind, Faith?"

"Of course I don't mind." She watched them, father and daughter, dancing together, Walter trying desperately to appear the same, Sue a slim blue streak with a gardenia in her light brown hair, animated and talkative. At least Walter had Sue who adored him, she thought. He had everything—except his wife. Her dark eyes surveyed the charming, sophisticated scene and lingered on the faces of strange men. She would never again think, "Some day—somewhere I'll see him—the man I'm going to love," because she knew now that he was Carl and that she was never going to see Carl again unless they met by chance. He was still so close, every gesture, every expression still so vivid and real.

Christmas Money for Juvenile Artists

Attention, juvenile artists! Here's the third cartoon in the Kris Kringle coloring contest now being conducted by The Constitution.

Twelve cartoons will be published in all, with three crisp one-dollar bills to be awarded each day to the boys and girls doing the best job of coloring. There are still nine more cartoons to be published, so even though you haven't won yet, you still may be a winner.

Here are the rules:

- 1.—The contest is open to any boy or girl of grammar school age.
- 2.—Color the drawing of the Kris Kringle Kids which appear accompanying these rules. You may use either crayons or water colors and may decorate the cartoon in any manner you choose.
- 3.—After you have colored the drawing, print your name, age, address, and the school you attend on a sheet of paper and attach it to the cartoon with paste.
- 4.—Mail or deliver today's drawing to the Contest Editor, Atlanta Constitution, before midnight tonight.
- 5.—The Constitution will award three prizes a day for 12 days for the best entries. Originality and neatness will be considered in the judging. Names of today's winners will be published Friday.

W. J. CORDES HEADS COMMITTEE FOR TRAFFIC SAFETY

Group Indorses Separate Court, Urges Serious Consideration to Plans for One-Way Streets.

W. J. Cordes was named chairman of the Citizens Traffic Safety Committee yesterday, succeeding Malcolm N. Fleming, who became vice chairman.

The committee, composed of representatives of various civic organizations and concerns that operate truck fleets, commended the establishment of a traffic court in Atlanta; asked city authorities to give serious attention to the establishment of more one-way streets, and recommended that traffic lights be timed progressively to speed the flow of traffic.

Continue School Exhibits.

It was also voted to set up minimum membership dues, and to continue the committee's educational program of safety demonstrations and speeches in schools.

Other officers named to serve with Cordes were Mrs. W. L. Gelissen, vice chairman, and Charlie Bishop, secretary-treasurer.

Appointed to the executive committee were Harry Indell, Warren Pollard, Captain Jack Malcom, head of the Atlanta police traffic department; State Commissioner of Public Safety Lon Sullivan; Charlie Bishop; I. C. Moss, and Hard Crain.

Speaking during the meeting, held at the Ansley hotel, were Commissioner Sullivan, Mayor Hartsfield, and Captain Malcom.

Mayor Praises Police.
The mayor, praising Atlanta's police department, said the city had been consistent in enforcing traffic laws, and stated he believed the city would place either first or second in the contest sponsored annually by the National Safety Council.

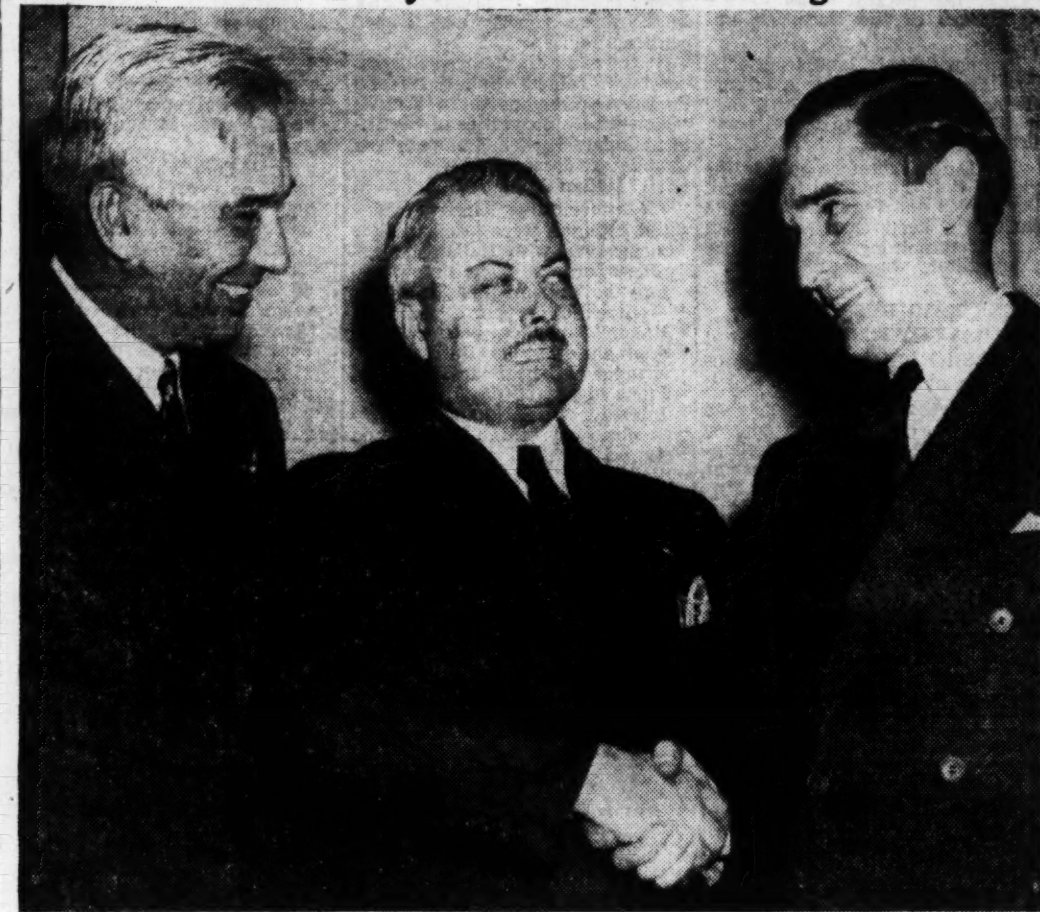

All speakers pointed out the large reduction in the city's traffic fatality rate since the 25-miles-per-hour speed limit had been put in force.

Malcom stated that only seven traffic deaths had occurred in the city since last June, compared with 25 for the period June to November, 1938.

Need of Assistance Told.
"The police, the mayor, and all of us need your moral support in the campaign," Malcom said. "You should meet and work with us every week."

tion," he added, "and we need people like you to help us."

Sullivan praised city police for "taking the bull by the horns and doing something." He warned them the moment they relaxed their vigilance, the traffic death rate would begin to climb.

Elected members of the board of directors were Stuart M. Haw, Oby T. Brewer, Alvin B. Cates, Fred Gould, Eugene Gunby, Walter C. Hendrix, E. G. Hitt, Mrs. Stephen B. Ives, Mrs. Alva G. JOB FOR REAL MEN HELD BUREAU GOAL

'No Place for Chisellers,' Compensation Group Told.
Stabilizing jobs for "real men—not chisellers" was declared yesterday to be the function of the Georgia Bureau of Compensation by the head of its legal department, Clifford Walker, former governor.

"The 'real man,'" Walker told the bureau's advisory council, "is the man who wants work, who is looking for work, who is capable of work, who should have work—the man who seems relief and charity."

More than 100 business, industrial and labor leaders attended.

Big Brothers Return to Air Tonight In Drive To Cheer Underprivileged

Total Raised in Second of Daily Broadcasts Reported To Have Gained Substantially Over Sum of Monday Program; Public Invited To 'Listen In,' 'Chip In.'

The "Big Brothers" went back on the air waves over WGST last night in the second of a series of daily broadcasts on behalf of the annual charity drive to provide Christmas cheer for underprivileged Atlanta families.

Under the guiding hands of John Fulton and Frank Gaither, well known as the "Sidewalk Snappers," Mac Wooten and his staff orchestra provided music for the program with vocals by Dan Hornsby.

Singing request numbers for any contributors, Hornsby was credited with several substantial donations to the cause and the total raised was reported as a "substantial gain" over Monday night.

A full 30-minute program will be offered beginning at 10:30 o'clock tonight and the public is invited "to listen in and chip in" either at home or by attending the broadcast at the studio.

All money raised will go into the "Big Brother" fund which will be used to buy Christmas baskets for Atlanta's poor, and every contribution helps. The baskets, bought at wholesale, cost $3 each and represent $8 worth of merchandise at retail figures.

Contributions of any amount may be sent either to The Constitution or to station WGST. They may be in the form of outright donations or orders for the "Big Brother" edition of The Constitution which will be issued December 17. It will be priced at 10 cents—up.

All contributors have been invited to take part in a broadcast during the daily series.

their individual fights for independence.

If you hit a snag and needed help, you wouldn't want strange people telling you how to spend every penny and saying "do this and do that." It is vitally important that the Ten Opportunity families be helped in holding on to their self-respect and their self-reliance. It's those two things that will keep them off the relief rolls—keep them always fighting upward.

It's Your Opportunity, Too.
Sorrow and heart-break are in the families we are going to tell you about in The Constitution. Their lives are tragedies now. But it's your opportunity to help them beat back the difficulties which threaten to engulf them. It's your opportunity to give a little so that one family or two may emerge victorious and become entirely self-supporting. It's important to Americans to help such people.

From within your security, you can afford to give something, it will help. No matter how big or small the donation, every cent helps because it all goes to the family you want to aid. Send or bring a contribution to Hugh H. Trotti, vice president and business manager of The Constitution. He is treasurer, and he sees that every cent you give is spent for the family with whom you sympathize. Read the Ten Opportunity stories which will appear in The Constitution in a few days.

Identity Kept Secret.
The generous people who donate to the Ten Opportunity fund and the warm-hearted organizations which "adopt" entire families until they can get on their feet are never told who it is they are helping. This is because the absolutely must not be any interference in the struggle of these distressed, heart-torn families in tating swiftness in the better homes. And where there is want and where there is a chance for independence is where the Ten Opportunity families come from.

Chance might well have it that one of the Ten Opportunity families is your neighbor, no matter where you live. But if one of the families is one in the same block or next door to you, you will never know it because the identity of the Ten Opportunity families is forever kept secret.

Transfer Will Be Effective January 1.

James P. Googe, assistant manager of the fifth civil service district, has been promoted and transferred effective January 1, to the central office of the Civil Service Commission in Washington, it was announced yesterday.

For the past three years Mr. Googe has been assistant manager of the fifth civil service district, which includes the states of Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina.

Wesley S. Andress, 1012 Byron drive, S. W., will succeed Googe as assistant manager. Andress at present is a field civil service examiner under the Atlanta office.

F. M. BROWN DIES; FINAL RITES TODAY

Retired Decorator Hal Lived Here 12 Years.

Final rites for F. M. Brown, 76, of 1006 Lawton avenue, S. W., well known retired interior decorator, who died Monday night at his home, will be conducted at 9:30 o'clock this morning at the chapel of A. C. Hemperley & Sons.

Dr. M. A. Cooper will officiate and burial will be in Carrollton City cemetery.

A resident of Atlanta for the past 12 years, Brown was a member of the Oakland City Baptist church and had been the head of the F. M. Brown Company until forced to retire early this year due to his health.

STATE PARK TO GET 3,600 MORE ACRES

Vogel Site Will Benefit by New Lake and 35 Cabins.

An expansion for Vogel State park near Blairsville, calling for addition of 3,600 acres to the area, was announced yesterday by Eugene Bothwell, acting director of the state parks department.

Bothwell said construction would begin immediately on 35 new cabins, a second lake and a 20-room addition to Walasiyi inn.

The present park includes 257 acres, eight cabins and a 31-acre lake. The inn has seven rooms available for vacationers. The new lake to be built above Lake Trahlyta, is to cover 75 acres.

Bothwell explained the state would acquire 150 acres in its own right by purchase or gift, while the United States Forest Service is arranging a "free-use" permit for 450 more adjoining the present park. Another 3,000 acres of federal forest is to be opened to the state as a wild life refuge.

The parks division executive estimated the federal government would spend $1,250,000 over the next five years in a CCC camp project at the park, while the state would put up $5,000.

J. B. OGLESBY DIES; RITES TOMORROW

Retired Real Estate Man Had Resided Here More Than Forty Years.

Julian B. Oglesby, 68, of 1042 Marietta street, N. W., retired real estate broker and a resident of Atlanta for more than 40 years, died yesterday afternoon at his home after an illness of 10 days.

A native of Marietta, he moved to Atlanta from Dalton, Ga., and was for a short time connected with Swift & Co. He later entered the real estate business from which he retired several years ago.

A graduate of old Emory College, at Oxford, Ga., he was a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He also was a member of the Elks and Trinity Methodist church and was noted for his many philanthropies.

Surviving are his wife; a stepson, Henry Hamilton Rogers, and several cousins.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Peachtree chapel by the Rev. Paul A. Turner. Burial will be in Dalton under direction of Brandon-Bond-Condon.

COURT AFFIRMS CONTEMPT ORDER

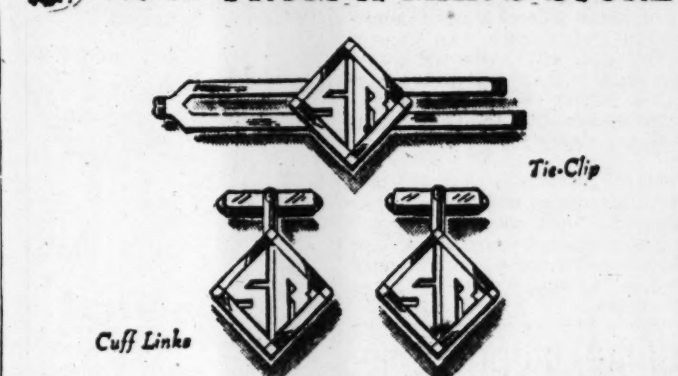

Judge Upheld in Webster President's Case.

A court order holding Jay D. Bradley, president of Webster University in Atlanta and resident of Decatur, in contempt of court was affirmed yesterday by the court of appeals.

The order carried with it a fine of $200 or service of 20 days in the DeKalb jail and was issued by Judge Clifford Pratt, of the Piedmont circuit.

Bradley was held in contempt when he refused to answer questions in a disbarment proceeding brought against two New York lawyers and one Chicago lawyer who were admitted to practice in Jefferson county on certificates of graduation from Webster University.

Discuss North Side Transportation Modernizing Plan

Discussing plans for modernization of the Georgia Power Company's northside transportation system last night were Preston S. Arkwright (right), president of the power company, and George B. Hamilton, president of the Buckhead Fifty Club, before whose members the new project was outlined by Mr. Arkwright.

CHANGE PROPOSED IN TROLLEYS, BUSES

fic on Peachtree road, it was explained, because they offer much less interference to other traffic. With curbstone loading and unloading they will eliminate the accident hazard to passengers who now cross a wide traffic lane on Peachtree to board or leave the street cars.

Popularity Predicted.

Arkwright predicted the new trackless trolleys would be even more popular on the Peachtree line than on the East Point-Hapeville-College Park line. When the first line was installed, 22 vehicles were sufficient to accommodate the riders, but rapid increases in patronage have made it necessary for the company to increase the number to 28, with indications that more will have to be added in the near future.

He said the new vehicles would be ordered immediately if the necessary approvals are obtained, but that six months would be required to obtain them from the manufacturer and to restring the overhead wires for double trolleys.

Bus transportation on West Peachtree would eliminate the objection of many riders in the area that inbound cars in the morning rush hours are always filled before reaching Pershing Point.

In addition to members of the Fifty Club, representatives of other civic clubs and municipalities interested in the proposed service were present to hear Arkwright's presentation.

He asked those present to support the company's requests for approval of the new service, on the ground that the club first originated the proposal that trackless trolleys be installed in the area, and that "the company is simply carrying out an undertaking which had its origin in the far-sightedness and constructive planning of the club."

"When you invited me out here six months ago," he said, "and asked the Georgia Power Company to give you trackless trolley service, I was forced at that time to explain that we did not have the money to finance such an extensive improvement. I did, however, ask our transportation engineers to look into the matter very carefully, and the program appeared so attractive that we were able to include it in our 1940 budget. So the Buckhead Fifty Club really is responsible for this very important step which will give Peachtree road the best and most modern transportation service in Atlanta."

CHILE NOT TO JOIN PROTEST AGAINST ATTACK ON FINNS

Foreign Minister Says Condemnation Should Have Occurred in Cases of Czechs, Austrians.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 5.—(UP)—The popular front government tonight informed Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia and Uruguay that Chile would not participate in any joint American protest against Soviet Russia for its invasion of Finland.

Foreign Minister Abraham Ortega said condemnation of invasions should have occurred when Austria, Czechoslovakia, Albania and Poland were overrun.

This government's stand was announced shortly after Communists in the chamber of deputies forced the session to suspend following an attack by Deputy Ricardo Bolzard on Russia. A near riot developed after the charge was made that the Communists received money from Moscow to spread propaganda in Chile.

In informing the diplomatic representatives of Peru, Ecuador, Bolivia and Uruguay of this country's attitude in the Russo-Finnish conflict, Russia stressed that the popular front government maintains a policy of no commitments and no interference in European affairs.

LEAGUE CONSIDERS "UNITED POLICY"

GENEVA, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Latin American delegates to the League of Nations, conscious of a new position of leadership given them by Argentina's suggestion that Soviet Russia be ejected, met tonight to consider a "united policy" on the Finnish war.

They decided to contact their governments, and to meet Saturday prior to the council session.

Argentina, Uruguay, Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico, Cuba, and the dominican republic were represented.

As the result of Finland's protest and the South American front, diplomats predicted Russia faced the choice of quitting or being kicked out.

PERU FOREIGN MINISTER CONDEMNNS RUSSIA

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Enrique Cuytoso, Peru's foreign minister, condemned tonight the Russian invasion of Finland, calling it a "flagrant disregard of the right of an organized people legally established and free" to life and sovereignty.

The foreign minister, commenting on a movement among Pan-American nations to denounce the Russian action, said Peru "believes this condemnation is in accordance with the American legal tradition and loyalty to the principles which were the basis of the constitution of the League of Nations."

CUT DIPLOMATIC TIES, CONGRESSMEN URGE

BRIDGEPORT, N. J., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Two Republican congressmen from New Jersey proposed tonight the immediate severance of diplomatic relations with Russia because of the Soviet's invasion of Finland.

Representative Fred A. Hartley Jr., with Representative Walter S. Jeffries at his side, told a party rally:

"We recommend the abrogation of diplomatic relations with Russia at once."

"We would also give Finland a moratorium on its war debts."

CLAYTON TRIALS POSTPONED DAY

on the new Macon highway.

Burns faced trial before Judge James Davis, who found him guilty and sentenced him to one month in jail and a fine of $250. Burns, through his counsel, W. R. Bentley, filed an appeal.

While on the second floor of the historic Jonesboro court house Solicitor Leathers urged the prosecution against gambling devices, the first floor was quietly busy, like as three of the five accused commissioners sat in "a routine business meeting" with their attorney, E. S. Kemp.

Present were F. C. Gargile, acting as chairman, E. L. Stephens and Dr. J. R. Wallis. Absent were Commissioners H. Grady Moore and W. S. Lee, both of whom were said to be confined to their homes with illnesses.

If plans had gone through according to Solicitor Leathers' schedule yesterday morning, Commissioner Moore would have been the first of the officials called to answer to five counts issued against him and each of his fellow commissioners.

It was understood the case of Brown would come up at 10 o'clock this afternoon, and then the case of Moore. In the event Moore is not in the courtroom, a court-appointed physician will be sent to examine him to determine the extent of the illness.

E. S. Kemp and H. A. Allen, counsel for Moore and Lee, are believed to be seeking a continuance of the trial pending recovery of their clients. However, Judge O. J. Coogler, O. J. Coogler Jr., and Mr. Kemp, who are representing the other three commissioners, said yesterday they were ready to go to trial whenever the state called the cases.

Around Atlanta

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

East Atlanta Businessmen's Club, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at John B. Gordon school, W. Sam Smith, president, announced yesterday.

Members of the Burns Club of Atlanta will hear an address by Dr. Josiah Crutcher, of Mercer University, at the club's monthly dinner-meeting at 7:15 o'clock tonight. Dr. Crutcher will speak on "Time." Walter B. Stewart, president, will preside. Judge John B. Quarry will introduce the speaker. Jim Key, soloist, and John Ness, pianist, will furnish the musical program.

Men's Garden Club will hold their monthly meeting at 12:30 o'clock today in Rich's Tea Room with the president, Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, presiding. A paper will be read on a biographical sketch of the career of E. H. Wilson, who was the keeper of the Arnold Arboretum at Boston.

Mrs. E. Stewart, chairman Department of Public Welfare Fifth district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs and Americanism chairman of the West End unit 147, American Legion Auxiliary, yesterday requested all women interested in combating subversive activities and in keeping America out of war to attend the Americanism Forum at Taft Hall at 4 o'clock tomorrow.

D. E. Wilson of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, official statistician of the Georgia-Alabama synod of the Lutheran church left Atlanta yesterday to attend a school for all statisticians of the United Lutheran Church in America, to be held in Harrisburg, Pa., December 6 and 7.

Atlanta Truth Center will meet at 11 o'clock this morning at the Baltimore hotel, on the mezzanine floor.

Rev. William Crowe, of Talladega, Ala., addressed several hundred members of the Atlanta Presbyterian church last night at the Central Presbyterian church. Speaking on

At the Courthouse

Trial of J. Q. Nash, former superintendent of the Fulton County Industrial Farm for white boys, Hapeville, was continued yesterday until January 16 when Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy set the case over. He previously had denied a demurrer filed in Nash's behalf by Attorney William Schley Howard.

Fulton county commissioners will meet at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in regular session. Although the 1940 budget is slated for an informal discussion, it is not expected that any definite action will be taken pending submission of new revenue estimates by James L. Respass, of Respass & Respass, county auditors.

At the City Hall

Congressman Robert Ramspeck, of the fifth Georgia (Fulton county) district, will return to Washington next week to seek an appropriation for ICC to make an investigation of freight rate differentials, he said yesterday as he visited the office of Mayor Hartsfield. The congressman viewed several short motion picture films, which the mayor has made in his travels.

Veto of salary raises for half a dozen Atlanta police officers aggregating about $2,000 a year, was in prospect yesterday when provisions of a city charter amendment were called to Mayor Hartsfield's attention. The new restrictions provide that salary raises can be made in January and July of each year. Formerly the salaries of all members of the police department were fixed in December for the ensuing year, and that was what impelled council to pass the resolutions at Monday's meeting.

More than 200 persons already want truck driving jobs for which Carl T. Sutherland, city personnel director, advertised yesterday. All those wishing to take examinations to be held at a later date, must file their intentions by noon Saturday. Competitions will be based largely on knowledge of traffic regulations.

Articles Stolen From Church's Chinese Exhibit

Wesley Memorial church was the latest victim of the city's petty thieves.

Miss Mary Culler White, of 1221 Fairview road, missionary to China, reported to police yesterday that several articles had been stolen from an exhibit which she had set up in the church building. These included eight Chinese posters, one small etching of a Chinese boy and one small silk tapestry. Detectives Forrester and Jackson were assigned to investigate.

TWO ATLANTA BOYS REPORTED MISSING

Police of three states—Georgia, Florida and Alabama—were notified yesterday to aid in search for two 14-year-old boys Junior High school students, missing since last Monday, according to Atlanta police.

The boys are Willie Bert Shelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Shelley, of 521 Glenwood avenue, S. E., and J. N. Wall, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wall, of 516 Bryant street, S. E. The boys were last seen en route to school, the parents said.

into "wartime service." The order brought Swedish forces under arms to about 150,000, compared to her normal standing force of 20,000.

Norway, likewise, stepped up defensive measures by sending more men to her far northern frontier adjoining Finland.

The Norwegian invitation to Thursday's conference failed to mention Finnish Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner or his predecessor, Elias Erkko, now in Stockholm as "large dignitary."

President Kyosti Kallio, of Finland, was included in the Stockholm parleys of the kings of the Scandinavian countries last month which resulted in a declaration of solidarity among the northern countries.

Declaration Recalled. It was pointed out that declaration meant moral and economic support, but not military aid, for Finland.

Koht declared today, however, that Finland's plight deeply concerns Scandinavia "both because of ourselves and because of Finland."

Denmark's reiteration of her neutrality was considered by diplomats as inevitable since she has a nonaggression pact with Germany and thus would refrain from any action which might change her neutral stand toward all phases of the European upheaval.

Denmark's only land frontier is with Germany and her coastlines are dominated by the British fleet in the North sea and the German fleet in the Baltic.

The Danes therefore hold to the view that if the mutual interest of the British and the Nazis does not suffice to keep Denmark out of war, then nothing they could do in a military way could aid her.

FINNS RAID RUSSIAN AIR BASES WITH SUCCESS

HELSINKI, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Finnish air attacks against Soviet bases on the Baltic and beyond today as forces of the little republic fought back against invasion.

Raiders crossed the Gulf of Finland and attacked Paldiski, the Baltic port which Russia leased from Estonia, it was reported without confirmation or further details.

Dispatches from far northern Norway said that 60 Russian planes were reported destroyed by a Foray of Finnish airmen who dropped incendiary bombs on an air base at Murmansk, Soviet Arctic port east of northern Finland. These reports also lacked confirmation.

At the same time, three Russian bombers raided Salmijarvi and the surrounding northern Finnish region where properties of the International Nickel Company of Canada are located.

Italian Planes Used. (Authoritative circles said the Finns were defending themselves with Italian-made planes, ordered some time before the Russian invasion.)

(Stockholm reports said 25 Italian planes had been delivered and that an Italian instructor had been drilling the Finns night and day.)

Intensive Soviet naval activity was observed this morning on Petsamo Fjord, Finland's Arctic outlet, and it was believed warships were conveying troops there from the Russian garrisons in Murmansk, Alexandrovsk and Kola.

(The United Press reported that 2,000 Russian troops were killed in a single engagement, tonight's war communiqué No. 4 said.)

(Tonight's official announcement told of artillery duels on Lake Ladoga between Finnish coastal batteries and light Russian naval vessels, the news service reported.)

(A total of eight Russian tanks were reported to have been destroyed during the day.)

(Russia last night said her troops had penetrated Finland as far as 30 miles on the Karelian isthmus, north of Leningrad, and 16 miles south of Petsamo on the Arctic.)

Finland's hope that help might eventually be forthcoming from her Scandinavian neighbors was indicated by feverish Finnish fortifications of the Aaland islands which would keep open sea communications with Sweden across the Gulf of Bothnia.

Importance of Move Seen. The importance of Finland's step became more apparent as the Scandinavian foreign ministers prepared to meet in Oslo Thursday.

Early winter night settled on Helsinki without further Soviet air raids but the Finns were apprehensive that Russia might choose the twenty-first anniversary of Finnish independence tomorrow for further aerial attacks.

Most civilians have been moved from the capital to safer points inland but workmen still are busy boarding up Helsinki buildings.

A landing was attempted at Liihamari, but failed, these reports said. A later landing at the mouth of the fjord, however, was successful while Finns took up strong defense positions further inland at the town of Petsamo.

Though air and sea activity intensified, there were no reports of land operations up to late afternoon and the Finns apparently had been able to slow the Russian advance.

Finns Reported Successful. (From Kirkenes, Norway, it was reported that the Finns had repulsed sporadic raiding attacks by the Russians and, near had shot down at least one Russian plane.)

(Near Salmijarvi it was reported that the Finns had surrounded a detail of 200 Rus-

Wesleyan Girls Selected to Act As Hostesses for Gala Premiere

By Sally Forth.

JACQUELINE HOWARD, Annie Laurie Kurtz and Jane Stillwell are among the fortunate girls selected to act as hostesses for the Atlanta premiere of "Gone With the Wind," according to announcement by the Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae Association judges. Other selections are being made from the city's youngest alumnae and from Atlanta students who are now at Wesleyan.

Jacqueline, who was graduated from Wesleyan in 1936, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Schley Howard, of Decatur. Her grandfather, Thomas Coke Howard, was postmaster general of the Confederate States under Jefferson Davis during the Civil War, and her great-grandfather, John Howard, was one of the founders of Wesleyan College in 1836. Sherman used her grandfather Howard's home as headquarters during the Battle of Atlanta, and several pieces of furniture in the Howard home once adorned that house. Her maternal grandfather, John Radcliffe Robson, served as a surgeon during the war.

Annie Laurie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kurtz, is well known for her connections with this famous movie, as her mother and father were in Hollywood as consultants during the filming of the book. Annie Laurie is already familiar with many of the celebrities she will greet and she is particularly happy that her beloved school was given this honor. Then, too, her grandfather, Captain W. A. Fuller, served as captain of an independent group assigned to guard the state railroad, and on April 12, 1862, captured the Andrews raiders.

Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stillwell, of Decatur, and she is very proud of the diary which her great-grandfather, William Bass Stillwell, kept during the strenuous days at Manassas, Harper's Ferry and other strategic points. Excerpts give interesting descriptions of the Confederate soldiers' life: "We are living on raw or roasted apples, though at times we have green corn and sometimes nothing. Our army is almost without clothes and many are barefoot. We have no tents, not even the colonels use them. . . . The woods are full of refugees without shelter or protection. Strange to say, most of them carry a looking glass in one hand and a frightened child in the other. It is a remarkable thing that the ladies never forget their mirrors in the midst of so much sorrow and distress."

The committee of Atlanta Wesleyan Alumnae who are selecting hostesses for the premiere journeyed to Macon yesterday to measure Atlanta students at Wesleyan and to invite the slim and beautiful ones to assist on the grand occasion. Mrs. W. W. Davison is president of the Atlanta Alumnae and the premiere chairman, and Mrs. A. Worth Hobby is her co-chairman.

When Marion McCrory makes her debut on December 19 at a brilliant ball given at the Yacht Club, built on the bank of the St. Johns river in Jacksonville, Fla., her first cousin, Caroline McCrory Armistead, will be presented to Jacksonville socialites at the same party. Marion is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McCrory, and her father was reared in College Park and Atlanta.

Caroline's mother is the former Miss Frankie McCrory, who spent her girlhood in College Park and Atlanta, and is a first cousin of those well-known Atlantans, Goodrum and Alonzo Norris. Caroline attended Agnes Scott College, and has traveled extensively in the United States and Europe. She possesses a soprano voice of exquisite tone and timbre, and is the namesake of her grandmother, the late Mrs. Caroline Goodrum McCrory, of Newnan and College Park.

Mrs. McCrory entertains at an afternoon reception at her Riverside drive residence in Jacksonville, prior to the brilliant Yacht Club ball, in order that her attractive daughter and charming

Mrs. J. H. Wynne brought the devotional. Plans were made for Christmas baskets for the poor. The annual Christmas party will be held on December 21.

A social hour was enjoyed, with Mrs. A. C. Haynes in charge of a menu contest. Prizes were won by Miss Allma Kent and Mrs. J. H. Wynne.

Final Reports on G. W. T. W. Ball Feature Junior League Meeting

An interested Junior League membership heard committee chairmen tell of final plans for the elaborate charity ball to be staged by the Atlanta Junior League on December 14 at the city auditorium. Mrs. Malon Courts and Mrs. Martin Kilpatrick, general chairmen for the affair, called upon the various committee heads to tell of the work already accomplished and the details to be finished. Mrs. Colquitt Carter Jr., president of the league, presided at the meeting held yesterday at the Piedmont Driving Club.

Mrs. Frank Boston, ticket chairman, repeated that all persons having ball reservations must pick up their tickets at the ball headquarters at 52 Broad street between December 4 and December 9. Any tickets not claimed on December 9 will be offered for resale.

The secretary read a letter thanking the league for its co-operation on Poppy Day. Mrs. Robert Sams, the civic affairs chairman, announced that 90 Junior League members working for the Community Fund solicited 338 doctors, dentists, nurses, secretaries and technicians in the Medical Arts and Doctors buildings. The sum collected exceeded by $1,000 the amount given in the same territory last year.

Mrs. Berrien Moore Jr., radio chairman, announced that the radio script given by Mrs. Joseph Cooper on the Atlanta Journal editorial hour last year has been awarded the second prize in the national radio contest sponsored by the Junior League Magazine.

Mrs. Edwin McCarty announced that members of the sewing committee are dressing dolls and providing clothes for needy children which will be distributed through the Child Welfare Society.

Mrs. Fritz Orr, second vice president, announced that a number of volumes have been added to the library of the social planning council in appreciation of their co-operation and the valuable aid of Earl Lippincott in making successful the orientation course recently completed by the new members.

Mrs. Orr announced that 18 of these have done the required reading and adequately prepared the written reports and are now active League members for volunteer service.

The January meeting will be held on January 9.

Miss Lillian Klein Honored at Party

Miss Lillian Klein, attractive debutante, was central figure last evening at the buffet supper at which Dr. and Mrs. Wilbur W. Blackman entertained at their home on Andrews drive. Bridge was enjoyed after supper.

Mrs. Lloyd Davis, sister of the honor guest, and Mrs. Wilbur L. Blackman, assisted in entertaining. A color motif of red and silver predominated throughout the house, and the dining room table was centered with a sparkling Christmas tree, flanked on either side by crystal candelabra holding red tapers.

Guests included a group of debutantes and their escorts.

making successful the orientation course recently completed by the new members.

Mrs. Orr announced that 18 of these have done the required reading and adequately prepared the written reports and are now active League members for volunteer service.

Roadside Beautification Chairman Issues Request to Property Owners

Working with Mrs. Echols in this county roadside beautification plan are Mrs. James N. Brawner, Mrs. Shepard Bryan, Mrs. Ralph M. Walker, Mrs. Mildred Seydell, Miss Annie Lou Hardy, Miss Louise Mackay and Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, president of Atlanta Federation. They request the clubs in the federation to call this matter to the attention of their members and enlist the co-operation of property owners and business concerns in this effort to preserve the natural beauty of Fulton county.

Active participation in the general beautification plan as suggested by Mrs. Echols and her committee, consists of removal of out-of-date and damaged signs along the roads, a general cleanup of lumber piles, rubbish heaps, yards around homes and places of business, cutting of weeds and removal of any unsightly objects from the view of passersby. This is particularly urgent on those arteries of travel for visitors through the state.

Business concerns who have been in the habit of placing small signs indiscriminately on trees and posts are besought not to mutilate the trees in this manner nor to mar an otherwise beautiful stretch of woods.

Meeting Postponed. The woman's auxiliary of the Georgia Baptist Hospital will not hold the December meeting on account of the season of prayer for foreign missions.

Sacred Heart Group. The Sacred Heart Alumnae meets Sunday at the Sacred Heart convent after the 10 o'clock mass.

At Least Three Times a Week, Take Exercise

By Ida Jean Kain.

No doubt about it . . . there are women who need someone standing over them to make them exercise! Slimming, they think, would be a cinch if they could only enroll for a course at a salon and have an instructor put them through those intricate kicks and stretches one word at a time.

But the average housewife can't very well leave the dishes in the sink while she hastens out to keep a rendezvous with exercise! And so Wanda Bowman-Wilson, a Manhattan authority on scientific slimming, has come forth with a set of phonograph records which bring expert instruction right into your living room.

You can certainly play hooky from housework for 15 minutes in the mid-morning while you go about the business of acquiring a figure your husband will admire as extravagantly as he does your apple pie! And if you will take that much time out every morning, it is guaranteed that within a few weeks you can do such a thorough job of remaking your figure that you will look years younger.

One good thing about these recorded exercises is that they are graded according to your capacity for exercise. You start with very mild, simple movements, and gradually work up to strenuous calisthenics. And that is a rule any beginner should follow! It will make you supple instead of stiff and discouraged.

Some of the instructions are familiar to you—I hope! But they are well worth repeating. You can exercise at any time during the day except before breakfast, but you should wait at least an hour after meals. You should exercise in a room temperature of 70 to 75 degrees since the muscles work more efficiently in this temperature. It is best to exercise in your bare feet or in anklets—this helps strengthen the feet—and to wear a play suit or bathing suit for freedom of movement.

You can exercise every day—if you're serious! But exercise three times a week will get results. Miss Wilson warns that the exercises should not be taken more than once a day.

These exercises are not only safe for the average woman to follow but they are accurate and will get results in an amazingly brief period of time. Since streamlining has become the great feminine preoccupation, women are devoting considerable time and talent to the pursuit of slenderness—you might as well get results for your effort.

If you are overweight, however, you must not expect exercise to take the place of diet. Exercise is slimming but it takes a careful calorie count to slough off the pounds.

Home Security Is Essential To a Child's Well-Being

By Caroline Chatfield.

A young mother attending a child guidance clinic asked the director what he considered the most important duty of a mother to her child. Without hesitation he replied: "To have a normal and happy relationship with her husband." Do you think that's going around Robin Hood's barn? Well, it isn't and here's why.

A woman's relationship to her husband is the axis about which her life revolves. When that axis is out of alignment so is everything else in her life. Her personal appearance, her disposition, her housekeeping, her attitude toward her family and friends register the mal-adjustment.

However brave a front she may put up when she's cross-jostled with her husband and her marriage isn't panning out right, she can't hide the facts from her friends. The sense of disappointment and disillusionment in what she says or doesn't say, in her attitude toward them and toward life in general.

Then what about the little ones who live with her? May be they can't analyze human relationships as grown-ups can; but they are small seismographs, registering every tremor that takes place in their world. They are quick enough to sense the situation good or bad and their whole lives are colored by what they sense in those early formative years.

Let children grow up in a home where they breathe an atmosphere of affection and devotion, let them get their first ideas of life from parents who are polite to each other, defer to each other, respect each other, and are dutiful to each other, and the children are off to a good start. On the other hand, the experts tell us (and back up their statement with statistics) that the vast majority of juvenile delinquents come from homes where there has been discord and rowing and divorce.

Security, which is a first essential to a child's well-being, is in the home where things are right between father and mother. The object lesson of getting on amicably with people is always before them. Father and mother will be agreed on discipline and there will be no division of opinion that lets the children escape through the cracks. They are all bound up in an affectionate and secure bundle of life. Living largely on love, as women do, of course every wife expects to keep her romance with her husband and watch it ripen into peaceful, permanent friendship. But wonder how many women realize that their first duty to their children is to have normal, happy relationships with their husbands?

There's an old but tried and true adage about inspiring male respect by behaving as to earn respect. It's a charm recipe, too. You never heard of a girl man did not respect being referred to as charming, did you?

Remade Picture Will Compete With Itself

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 5.—Ann Sheridan has taken to wearing masculine coats and pants a la Marlene Dietrich, but somehow Ann still contrives to look ultra-feminine . . . Wallace Beery in a Hollywood shop testing a baby buggy for his newly adopted daughter. "Is it strong enough, is it safe?" he asks anxiously. The salesgirl giggles too much, and Beery says sheepishly, "Wrap it up." . . . "We Shall Meet Again," starring Merle Oberon and George Brent, will be in competition with itself. The movie is a remake of "One-Way Passage" (starring William Powell and Kay Francis), which is currently in the throes of a re-release. Exhibitors are demanding the withdrawal of the latter.

While on the subject of Miss Francis, that was a nifty job of first-aid rehearsal she performed at a recent party to demonstrate what a good nurse she is. The "victim" was bandaged with a tablecloth and several napkins, which was good for Kay's nursing reputation, but not so good for the table linen . . . Olivia de Havilland has gained seven much-needed pounds, but, as is the usual way of all flesh, she—to quote Olivia—has gained them "in the funniest places." Olivia is now letting out the hip seams of her dresses.

Bruce Cabot, Randolph Scott and Tim Durant were discussing the fair sex of our village. New Yorker Durant opined that it was hard to find an intelligent as well as attractive girl in these parts. The next day, Cabot telephoned Durant and asked—"Do you still want to meet an intelligent and attractive girl?" Durant did. "I've got just what you want," said Cabot. "Bring her over to tea—I want her to meet my mother," invited Durant. Mr. Cabot arrived at the Durant mansion shortly afterwards, accompanied by 15 girls from the local Follies Bergeres chorus. The two boys aren't quite as friendly as they were.

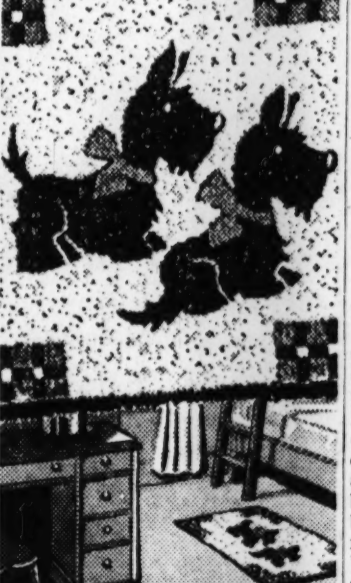

Carole Lombard likes violin and organ music when she is on the set. Not so Brian Aherne, with whom she is co-starring in "Vigil in the Night." After a particularly effective violin recording, Aherne yelled—"For heaven's sake, shut up." He was covered with confusion when told, "Miss Lombard ordered it." But Carole, who is a good sport, countermanded the music. . . . W. C. Fields insists on a baby spotlight to light up his nose when emoting for the camera.

Joan Crawford attends a recent preview with Cesar Romero and his mother. Does this mean the friendship is becoming serious? I hope not. Cesar is far too valuable as a general escort for Hollywood's unattached females for the industry to lose him in marriage . . . Jane Bryan studies a book on acting while eating lunch in the Warner Green room. Would-be actresses, please copy. . . . Which reminds me, the acting improvement in Paulette Goddard is terrific. And how she has worked for success! Miss Goddard is one of the most ambitious women I've ever met. And one of the most determined. She gets what she wants. Right now, she wants to be a good actress. You can bet everything that she will be.

Judy Garland now says she is 17. But that the studio has asked her to pretend to be 16. Please, Judy, don't pull a Deanna Durbin on us. Watch out for Susanna Foster in "The Great Days of Victor Herbert." The 14-year-old songstress has as much charm as Deanna. She has a higher vocal range (but not as sweet a quality), and is better looking. She looks like Bonita Granville. And she can act. In my opinion, she steals the picture from Mary Martin and Allan Jones. I liked Miss Martin, but I have no doubt Mary will be better in a modern story.

MY DAY:

Test an Organization Before You Join

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Monday.—Many years ago, when I was young, I began joining organizations. At that time I gave very small amounts of money, a good deal of work, and my reasons for joining usually were that a friend I trusted asked me to help. As the years have gone on, I have belonged to a great variety of organizations and I have stopped contributing to some and stopped working for some. In the past, the reasons for doing that were usually, first, that I did not think the amount accomplished for the money spent was sufficient. Second, that I came to think the work being done was not necessary because other organizations in the field. Third, that I came to believe that the organization was functioning primarily for the benefit of one individual who ran the organization and whose interest was purely personal.

All of us, in greater or less degree, make up the membership and the financial support of various organizations which function in the United States, but a new element has entered into the question of how we decide on the propriety of joining an organization, whether patriotic, civic or charitable. Any of these organizations may suddenly be declared Communist, or fronts for Communist or Fascist work. Therefore, the question arises—what is our duty when we are simply in sympathy with the apparent objectives of an organization and to which to make a small contribution? It seems to me that if we find one or two names of people on the letterhead, we have reason to believe are reputable people, we are justified in contributing and are not really open to attack as part of a subversive organization if it should develop later that a number of people in the organization have affiliations with undesirable groups.

If, on the other hand, we give our names to appear on the letterhead of an organization and work with it actively, it seems to me that we have a more serious obligation. Conscientious persons read all the publications put out by the organization which they are joining, attend as many meetings as possible, know as many people working in the organization as possible.

It seems to me that something which was said many years ago applies in this instance: "By their works ye shall know them." When an organization stands up under this amount of investigation, I fail to see how there can be hidden either a Communist or Fascist program or a surreptitious control of any kind. It is true that there might be a number of members who might willingly work for the objectives of an organization and yet belong openly and secretly to subversive groups, but you cannot fight shadows and you must wait until you find the objectives of any organization are being changed or interfered with. If I remember rightly, even Judas Iscariot was used and in the end he repented!

Add a good nut bread to your repertoire and your success as a hostess is assured. For tea time it is perfect.

Add Easily-Made Nut Breads To Your Accomplishments

By Sally Saver.

One of the questions most often asked of this food department is "What shall I serve for simple refreshments?" There are many answers to that question but one of the nicest answers is "nut bread spread with cream cheese and served with a cup of tea or coffee."

Nut bread has an elegant and sophisticated sound, and a special goodness all its own, which, most likely, is the reason that most folks think nut bread is hard to make. On the contrary it is quite simple, and if you will add these nut breads to your accomplishments, most of your entertaining problems will be solved automatically.

Plain Nut Bread.

2 cups flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons melted shortening
1 egg milk

3-4 cup nut meats
Sift flour, measure, then sift three times with other ingredients. Add milk to egg, pour into dry ingredients and blend well. Add shortening and blend. Pour into greased pan and bake 40 to 50 minutes in a moderate oven, 375 degrees.

Apricot Nut Bread.

1-2 cup apricots
1 egg, beaten
1 cup sugar

Wash apricots and cook in water to cover; when boiling point is reached, turn off fire and allow to steam 30 minutes or longer, then drain and grind or chop very fine. Blend with sugar and egg and stir in butter. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with the liquids. Stir in nuts and apricot mixture. Mix well. Pour into well-greased loaf pan and bake 1 1/4 hours in moderate oven 350 degrees.

This Maternity Style Is Becoming

By Lillian Mae.

Of course you can lead your normal, busy life—right up to the big day—in Lillian Mae's Pattern 4271. Order it in your own size, for it grows with your figure instead of letting your figure grow into it. The wrap-around skirt is easily adjustable at the buttoned waistband. The smock, which may be long or short, has a nicely-shaped yoke that holds smooth gathered fullness from below. Make long and full sleeves, with a lace-edged collar of self-fabric, or have short sleeves and crisp white collar and cuffs. To use with the skirt in wool, make several tops in gay prints. Then, for dress-up, have a matching skirt and top of crepe or silk.

Pattern 4271 is available in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 takes 5 3/4 yards 39 inch.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins for this Lillian Mae pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Don't Neglect Decay of Baby Teeth

By Dr. William Brady.

At the age of six or seven years a child cuts the first of the permanent teeth, the so-called "six-year molars" which come in back of the temporary molars. Eight bicuspids, cut at the age of 9 or 10 years, take the place of the eight molars of the first or temporary teeth.

If any of the baby or temporary teeth are already carious or decayed when the child cuts the first "six-year molars" it will probably not be long before these first permanent teeth become decayed, too, and loss of these teeth is serious, for it presages irregular development of the remaining teeth and early decay.

For this reason parents should see to it that any sign of cavity formation or decay in the child's teeth is brought to the attention of the family dentist and properly treated before the six-year molars appear. Generally beginning cavity, if the child is given the advantage of early examination of the teeth, may be arrested by a simple, painless temporary filling. It is a sad mistake to neglect decay of baby teeth on the ground that the child will lose them in a year or two anyway. Aside from the permanent damage which may be done the permanent teeth by the various process unchecked in the young child's mouth, the presence of decayed primary or baby teeth is a common cause of infected tonsils and adenoids in children. In fact, decay in the back tooth or teeth in any mouth is quite likely to cause tonsil infection—the back tooth and the tonsil are nearly in contact during the process of swallowing.

It is astonishing how often people neglect this feature of hygiene even when they believe and practice so-called oral hygiene so far as the use of toothbrush and dentifrice are concerned.

I consider a sound tooth worth at least $1,000. However, I waste neither time nor money on the "oral hygiene" just mentioned. Not that it does any harm, if one enjoys such monkeyshines. But whether you indulge in tooth brushing or not, there is one way, and only one, to keep your teeth clean, and that is by regular visits to the dentist for scaling, polishing, and proper treatment of any fissures or beginning cavities his inspection may reveal. And there is one way to insure sound, even teeth, and that is by good nutrition—good nutrition of your mother before you are born, good nutrition in infancy and throughout childhood and youth.

If your dentist (gentist to you, old timer) advises brushing your teeth with a particular kind of brush, in a special way and with a specific dentifrice for a specific purpose, he knows best what your teeth need. Otherwise, it is my conviction that neither a toothbrush nor a silk hat signifies gentle breeding.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Vaccination. Can't understand how you can take the position you do in reference to compulsory vaccination yet advise people that they had better have the "protection" of vaccination. Surely you must know that if it were not for the fee in it, intelligent doctors would stop this vicious practice.

Answer—The fee scarcely pays for the materials used, if the doctor looks after the vaccination wound as he should. I do advise every one to have such protection against smallpox. Having it myself I don't mind at all if you prefer to take your chances without it. Believing in the efficacy of vaccination, against smallpox I recommend it to every one who asks for or cares about my advice. I can see no reason why I should force vaccination on any sane or responsible individual who doesn't want it.

Circular Skirt Ideal for Youth

By Barbara Bell.

Season in and season out the whole year round, you need a two-piece tailored suit-frock like 1875-B. It's ideal for business, classroom wear and general spectator sports. The collarless neckline, besides being very smart, gives you a chance to indulge your fancy for sports jewelry and scarfs.

The skirt is full and circular, and of course you can wear it with your lingerie blouses, too. The jacket-blouse has unusually attractive bodice detailing, with stitched seams emphasized by two little flat pockets, placed just where slim figures need them! It is fitted in to hug the waistline, and the shoulders are gallantly squared, to make it look even more slender. Tweed, velveteen, flannel and wool crepe are excellent materials for right now; by all means repeat this later in fall or flat crepe.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1875-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 14 (32) requires 4 3/8 yards of 39-inch material. With long sleeves, size 14 requires 4 3/4 yards of 39-inch fabric.

It's smart to sew your own! It's easy to do! Send for our fascinating pattern book. Choose from more than 100 new designs for all occasions and all sizes. Make your own becoming clothes, with these simple patterns. Step-by-step sew chart with each one.

Price of patterns 15 cents. Price of pattern book 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

Extensive Travels Predicted

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS.

MISS MARY MCGAUGHEY.

Vivacious and charming Mary McGaughey, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McGaughey, has the type hand indicating intuition, loyalty and broadmindedness.

The long, well formed thumb bespeaks personal magnetism, whereas adaptability and clear judgment are indicated by the fingers and the long, clear, gently-sloping headline.

The type headline, taken in combination with this type of hand, gives the power of vision, combined with the power of execution, enabling her to put thought in tangible form, and presenting it in such a manner as to make it clear to others. If Mary should take up literature as a profession, she could easily achieve for herself a place in the world of letters.

The hand shows many "travel lines." Some of these lines are short and many of them appear longer. This indicates that she will travel much by land and sea. Many of her travels will take her to foreign lands.

Mary's hand shows an unusually well-marked line of marriage. The deeper indentation shown under the little finger indicates that her choice will likely fall on a young, dark-eyed businessman who will rise high in the world of finance.

On Friday Mrs. Jennings will analyze the hand of another debutante exclusively for The Constitution.

For Miss Bryan And Mr. Benedict

An interesting social affair of last evening was the spaghetti supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marriwerther were hosts at "Sleepy Hollow," near Roswell, in compliment to Miss Mary Bryan and her fiancé, William Noble Benedict.

Assisting in entertaining were Miss Theresa Atkinson and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton.

Centering the dining table was a frosted cake, made to resemble the Wesley road home to be occupied by the bride couple after their marriage. Featuring white icing, the confection was topped with a chocolate roof, and surrounded by a picket fence improvised of toothpicks and colored gumdrops. Tiny evergreen trees dotted the miniature lawn, which was covered with simulated snow.

Present, in addition to the hosts and honor guests, were Mr. and Mrs. Colquitt Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Bonneau Ansley, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hamilton, Misses Jessie Bradley, Edith Kendrick, Theresa Atkinson and William Morrow, Moreland Smith and Perryman Little.

Mrs. A. J. Orme and Mrs. William Huger were hostesses at luncheon yesterday at their home on Valley road in compliment to Miss Bryan.

Autumn colors were carried out in the decorations of the beautifully appointed luncheon table, which was centered with an arrangement of chrysanthemums in bronze and gold.

Covers were placed for Misses Bryan, Jessica Bradley, of Swainsboro; Lundy Sharpe, Mesdames Orme, Huger, Sheparc Bryan, Colquitt Carter, Bonneau Ansley, Arnold Broyles, Wilmer Moore, Robert L. Cooney and Joseph W. Hamilton.

FARM CHIEFS HEAR COLUMBUS ROBERTS

Says South Grows Any Crop Known in Nation; Dairy-ing Improved.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 5.—(AP)—Commissioner of Agriculture Columbus Roberts painted a picture of Georgia and the south today as supreme in many crops and the leaders in others.

He spoke at the National Association of Commissioners, Secretaries and Directors of Agriculture.

"Georgia and the south produce every crop grown in the United States," Roberts said.

He said Georgia was making progress as a dairy state because "our state holds a bright future for the dairy farmer. Our pastures are green from early spring till late fall, thus eliminating the cost of much concentrated feed-stuffs; we save on building because of our mild climate, we have an abundance of feeds such as silage, cotton seed meal and hulls and can grow all the hay we need."

Truck crops also are coming to the fore, Roberts declared.

DECATUR OFFICIALS UNOPPOSED TODAY

A. B. Robertson and J. W. Weekes Assured Victory.

Citizens of Decatur may or may not go to the polls today but, nevertheless, two city commissioners will be elected. They are running unopposed.

They are Andrew B. Robertson, chairman of the commission, and John Wesley Weekes. According to City Manager A. F. Newman, the two incumbents were the only candidates to file for election.

Polling booths will be placed for the first ward in the city hall, for the second ward at Oakhurst, and for the third ward at the East Lake Pharmacy.

GERMANS APPEAL U. S. SPY CONVICTIONS

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Two Germans, Hans Heinrich Schekov, 27, and Ernest Robert Kuhrig, 29, appealed here today from two-year sentences given them at Cristobal, Canal Zone, January 20, for photographing United States army strongholds.

Their counsel argued that charges of violating the espionage act by unlawfully obtaining information affecting the national defense were unjustified since the photographs had no military value.

Series of Parties Fetes Miss Smith.

Miss Elisabeth Smith, whose marriage to Wiley Patterson McGinty will be an event of December 20, is being honored at a round of social affairs.

Miss Smith will be central figure Saturday at a miscellaneous shower to be given by Misses Christine Robinson, Nelle Bruce and Lucile Taylor at Miss Taylor's home on Clifton road.

A seated tea will be given Wednesday by Misses Bertha Green and Anne Madden at Miss Madden's home on North Highland avenue in compliment to the bride-elect, and a luncheon shower at Rich's tea room on December 16 is planned by Misses Winnelle Myers and Sara Joyce Cunningham for Miss Smith.

Miss Lois Lennard was hostess at a dinner and shower recently at a downtown tea room honoring Miss Smith, guests having included Misses Sue Thrasher, Helen Fouche, Pauline Pullen, Dorothy Smith, Taine Saunders, Mrs. W. L. Tumlin and the hostess and honor guest.

Mrs. J. M. Lennard entertains today at a luncheon-shower at Rich's tea room in compliment to the bride-elect.

Mrs. Wallace Speaks.

A talk on "Borders" by Mrs. J. J. Wallace and a donation for Christmas presents for underprivileged children, were features of the recent meeting of the Virginia Avenue Garden Club, with Mrs. J. D. Bansley and Mrs. Roy Spence as hostesses. Mrs. Charles Walker, the president, presided.

There will be no December meeting, and Mrs. Byron Mathews will be hostess at the January meeting.

Y. W. C. A. Bazar.

The annual Christmas bazar sponsored by the Business Girls League will be held today from 4 to 7 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. parlors, 37 Auburn avenue. The public is invited to see the hundreds of articles, attractive novelties and to enjoy tea served by bazaar hostesses.

Miss Anna Mulcahy, club finance chairman, is in charge and announces that Christmas cards, plaques, ornaments, hand-knitted and crocheted articles, linens, potted plants and home-made candies and preserves will be temptingly displayed to attract Christmas shoppers.

After supper, club members will

For Miss Bohn And Miss Butters.

Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Issue Invitations.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shepard have issued invitations to a cocktail party on December 24 at their Walker terrace residence.

Dr. Duncan Shepard, only son of the hosts who resides in Rochester, Minn., arrives in Atlanta on December 16, to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents. He will be numbered among prominent and important visitors.

All Saints Bazar. Takes Place Today.

A dance program will be given this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Eggleston hall during the annual Christmas bazar sponsored by the Auxiliary Guild at All Saints' Episcopal church.

Taking part will be Ann Bleakley, Lillian Beal, Rebecca Cowan, Dorothy Dunn, Dianne Dougherty, Betty Jo Gann, Barbara Green, Margaret Hughes, Martha John, Gladys Lamb, Carolyn Roberts, Nancy Raine, Bonnie Sanders, Henrietta Spears, Mary Tappan and Betty Walker.

There will be many kinds of useful and ornamental articles for sale in the different booths in the hall, presided over by the chairmen of the chapters, and members. Between 5:30 and 7:30

Marietta Hostesses Honor Miss Hancock

MARIETTA, Ga., December 5.—Mrs. James Hancock and Mrs. Sam Howell Jr., of Cartersville, entertain at a reception Wednesday at the Marietta Golf Club honoring Miss Ann Elizabeth Hancock, of Atlanta and Cartersville, whose engagement to Homer McGown, of Rome, was recently announced. Mrs. J. R. Brumby and Mrs. Robert Stiles, sister of the groom-to-be, will pour tea and coffee. Receiving with the hostesses and bride-elect will be Miss James Don Hancock, mother of the bride-elect, John Hancock, grand-mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. Melbourne Martin, of Miami, sister of the honor guest. Mrs. P. C. Gilliam Sr., Mrs. P. C. Gilliam Jr. and Mrs. H. L. Gilliam, of Atlanta, will be among those assisting in entertaining.

Mrs. W. A. DuPre entertained at a luncheon Monday complimenting Mrs. Georgia K. Sullivan, of Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Q. Poyner and son, of Athens, have recently moved to Marietta and have an apartment on Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fowler, Mrs. J. R. Brumby and Mr. and Mrs. Remley Brumby entertain at a party Saturday evening at the Marietta Golf Club honoring Mr. and Mrs. George Montgomery Jr., who have returned from their honeymoon and are at home on Seminole drive.

Minor Leagues Act To Curb Landis' War on Chain Baseball

All in the Game

—by Jack Troy

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 5.—If there are any recent ex-Crackers in the market, count on Chattanooga to get them. Joe Engel, who is hailed everywhere as "Angel" by Maurice Bloch, of Selma, on account of Engel having purchased an interest in Bloch's club, is having the time of his life rubbing it in on Atlanta at the national baseball convention.

Mindful of the fact that he took a team with many former Atlanta stars on the roster and won a Southern league pennant last year, Engel has purchased Alameda Al Browne, ex-Cracker right fielder.

Engel still has Alex Hooks at first and Al Williams and Ted Pritchett on the pitching staff. With the purchase of Hugh Todd, Carrollton boy who starred with Jacksonville, of the Sally league, the Lookouts now have an ex-Cracker outfielder of Browne, Mike Hunt and Todd.

"It takes brains to win pennants," Engel reiterated again today.

"I'll take some more of those guys Atlanta couldn't use and win another one this summer."

"I have had several conferences with my manager, Kiki Cuyler, and we are working out some better signals. He missed some of the ones I flashed him last summer from the roof at the Chattanooga park. Otherwise, we would have been 14 games in front on July 4."

"Won't have any further trouble seeing the signals at night because we are going to use neon signs."

Chattanooga already has the makings of a pretty fair outfield. Mike Hunt and Al Browne, both from the Pacific Coast league, are good men.

To date, cagey Engel has made more progress toward getting his club lined up than any other team in the league.

BOSS LIKES THOSE VOLS.

Harley Boss, who played first base for the pennant-winning Lookouts of 1932 and now is a manager, has seen both Tennessee and Southern California play this year and Boss thinks the Vols will take the Trojans if they meet in the Rose Bowl.

"I've heard all that talk about what Southern California would do to Tennessee. Oklahoma was going to be tough last year, too. The Trojans have a lot of power, of course, but they don't have the team speed nor the wide range of good backs that Tennessee has. Another thing, I doubt that the Trojan blocking, especially the downfield blocking, is nearly as good."

"I have an idea that Tennessee is one and maybe two touchdowns better than Howard Jones' men. I hope they get to play because of all the talk that Tennessee isn't a representative southern team."

"It's hard to get folks to remember what the Vols did to Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl. And I think maybe Bob Neyland is criticized a little too severely about a schedule."

"The Tennessee supporters demand a winner, don't they? Well, Nevland gives them one. And, furthermore, the teams he puts out are pretty impressive looking when they run up against something a little tough," Boss said.

The sentiments of Boss are very familiar to those of Red Barnes, who played in the bowl on a pretty good Alabama team. He knows what it takes to win out there. Barnes' views were expressed in this corner yesterday.

There is a lot of football interest at the big baseball walkathon and there is no end of speculation as to how Texas A. & M. will react to the offer of $85,000 to play in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. It is hardly likely Tennessee can be interested—even for that much money. They'd get as much at Pasadena and there is more prestige attached to the Rose Bowl.

"RIOT" CAN'T FORGET.

Bob Wilson, who made a riot out of a couple of punches in the Tech-Kentucky game, can't seem to get the incident off his mind.

Consequently, Southern leaguers have nick-named Wilson "Riot" and the name is liable to stick. The man who originally made a mountain out of a mole hill was a piker compared with Wilson.

To hear him relate what happened at Grant field after Luke Linden, the Kentucky linebacker, took a punch at one of the Tech players, one wonders how folks escaped with their lives. After hearing the lucid details once again, this writer is thankful he was in Jacksonville, Fla., that afternoon.

NEW UMPIRING FACES.

At least half of the men who umpired in the Southern league last season will have employment elsewhere this summer.

Umpiring seemed a sore point in many parts of the league last year and President Trammell Scott is understood to be bringing in five new umpires.

And will have a nine-man staff again. Those being retained, it is understood, are Buck Campbell, Bob Kober, Steamboat Johnson and Showalter.

Which means that Shovel Hodge, Hall, Joe White and Red McCutcheon will call balls and strikes elsewhere.

TERRIBLE TERRY.

Bill Terry, the Memphis, who manages the New York Giants, finds the shoe on the other foot at this meeting. When the Giants were winning the major league writers couldn't do much about getting back at him. But since Brooklyn has finished ahead of the club, Terry is the target of much cynical writing.

The boys were checking on a rumor today. They heard that Terry last night bought somebody a cigar, and with real news at a low ebb, they spent much of today circulating around the lobby and trying to ascertain whether or not it is true.

Bert Niehoff, who manages Jersey City for the Giants, was seen smoking a cigar but he denied it had been given to him.

PURPLE 11 PREPS IN MIAMI TODAY FOR FRIDAY TILT

State Champs Out To Avenge Previous Defeats by Miamians.

By ROY WHITE. JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 5. Boys' High's Georgia prep championship football team is looking forward to its final practice session of the year Wednesday afternoon in the spacious Miami Orange Bowl in preparation for a Thursday night game with Miami High.

It's the final battle of the 1939 season unless a post-season game appears -- rumors have it that Boys' High is being sought for two January 1 games--though Coach Doyal is noncommittal.

"Beat Miami High" is the cry of 26 members of the Boys' High football party, and coaches, managers and supporters.

Miami High several years ago stopped a 34-game winning streak for the Purples and was the last team to defeat the Purples, 19 to 0, at the close of the 1937 season.

A new streamlined train, in its third run between Jacksonville and Miami, will arrive some two hours earlier than previous schedules, giving the Purples a two-hour workout Wednesday afternoon.

It's the only real workout since Boys' High beat Monroe Aggies, 14 to 7, last Friday night for Georgia's prep championship, and Coaches Doyal and Keith will take no chances with rough work.

HAIRE ALONG.

The injured list showed some improvement. Not completely healed, Clint Castleberry was left behind with a broken arm, but Howard Haire Jr., out several weeks with a sprained back, is along and may play some.

Coach Doyal announced today that Boys' High has accepted an invitation to witness the Georgia-Miami game Friday night as guest of the Miami University Athletic Association. The team will remain over in Miami through Friday night, leaving shortly before noon Saturday and returning home early Sunday morning.

Missouri U. Isn't Ready To Accept

Long Session Fails To Produce Answer From Committee.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 5.—(UP) The University of Missouri's Big Six Conference championship football team is not ready to accept a New Year's Day bowl bid, it was indicated tonight.

"As yet the committee has not approved acceptance to any bowl game," Sam B. Shiley, chairman of the school's athletic committee, told newsmen as he emerged from an afternoon-long session of the body.

He would not elaborate, and officials here have not confirmed popular supposition that the school has received a bid from Miami's Orange Bowl. Georgia Tech already has accepted an offer to play in the Miami classic.

Orange Bowl Invites Fordham, Boston College

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 5.—(AP)—The Orange Bowl committee widened the scope of its negotiations tonight as it appeared Missouri might be considering a bid to the Dallas Cotton Bowl.

While the committee made no official statements, it was learned authoritatively Fordham and Boston College were the newest prospects to provide opposition for Georgia Tech.

The opinion here was that negotiations with Missouri were still open but that Duquesne and Georgetown, high unbeatens, had not been discarded. There was an outside possibility, too, that Clemson might be invited to play Georgia Tech, even though it would match two southern teams.

ATLANTA CRACKERS OPEN SEASON WITH CHICOPEE TONIGHT

The Atlanta Crackers, a powerful professional basketball team which formerly played under Warren's colors, will take the Sports Arena court tonight to open their season against a strong quintet representing Chicopee Mills, of Gainesville. Warren will play Atlantic Steel in a preliminary game at 7 o'clock. Coached by Shep Lauter, the Crackers look set for a big season. Above is tonight's starting five. Left to right, Gabby Greenberg, guard who formerly played with Jewish Progressive Club; Bob Lieb, former "little All-American" guard at Roanoke College; Fred Bradford, forward; Ed Bellamy, center, and Lamar Murphy, forward. Murphy starred with the Monroe Aggies and now is the property of the Yankees. Other Cracker stars include Ed Copeland, Gene Warlick and Cherry Foster.

KNOX ELDREDGE TO START AT END

Bulldogs Drill Briefly Today; Depart for Miami Tonight.

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 5.—Knox Eldredge, 160-pound senior from Miami, Fla., will start at right end for Georgia Friday night against the University of Miami in the Orange Bowl stadium, Coach Wallace Butts said this afternoon as the Bulldogs went through another drill in sweat clothes.

Eldredge, only senior among the Georgia end corps will be performing before a home-town audience for the third consecutive year, the little Miamian being a sophomore when the Bulldogs and the Hurricane began athletic rivalry.

While Knox will get the starting role, his two principal rivals for the right end spot, James Skipworth and John Stegeman, will see plenty of service, Coach Butts intimated.

Alex McCaskill, pass snagging left end, will probably regain his starting post Friday night after having to watch the opening kickoff against Georgia Tech from the bench due to an injury.

McCaskill romped through this afternoon's drill with no trace of the leg injury that limited his play against the Jackets and was pronounced in good condition again.

The remainder of the Georgia lineup will be about as usual with the old reliable Charley Williams at left tackle and Wyatt Posey in the right tackle slot in place of Tommy Green, who is bothered with an ankle injury.

Hard-working Walter Wilfong and the fighting Smiley Johnson will be at guards with Tommy Witt at center; Robin Nowell, blocking back; Cliff Kinsey, tailback; Captain Vassa Cate at wingback, and Jim Fordham at full.

The Bulldogs will work out briefly tomorrow afternoon before boarding a train tomorrow night at 7 o'clock for the Miami tilt.

POOLEY HUBERT.

LEXINGTON, Va., Dec. 5.—(AP) The athletic council of Virginia Military Institute today re-appointed Coach Allison "Pooley" Hubert's football assistants for the 1940 season.

BREVITT AT STUD.

Brevitt, winner of the Florida Derby, is now doing stud duty on the breeding farm of his owner, Joseph E. Widener, in Kentucky.

Layden Praises Alex As 'Coach of Season'

From "Sports of the Times," by John Kieran in the New York Times of Monday, comes the following: "Among those mentioned as 'coach of the season' have been Homer Norton, of Texas A. & M.; Dr. Eddie Anderson, of Iowa, and Aldo Donelli, of Duquesne. Unsolicited, the Thin Man of Notre Dame, Elmer Layden, rose up at a Philadelphia Football gathering to put the name of Bill Alexander, of Georgia Tech, before the house. According to Elmer, the veteran coach at Georgia Tech had to make over his whole team. Shift players to new positions, put in inexperienced youngsters, and combat all sorts of handicaps. Yet Georgia Tech beat Vanderbilt, Auburn, Kentucky, Alabama, Florida and Georgia. They lost to Notre Dame by 3 points and to Duke by 1 point, these being their only defeats in the season's play. The traditional game with Georgia was still ahead when Elmer put in Bill Alexander's name for approval, but the boys didn't let Bill down."

Atlanta Crackers Play Chicopee Five

Lamar Murphy, Gabby Greenberg, Bud Shipper, Bob Lieb Newcomers on Lauter's Team.

While folks hereabouts have glued eagle eyes on the various bowl committees with a view to determining what football teams will meet on New Year's, a right brand-new and shiny basketball season has slipped up and smacked 'em right in the face.

Various league teams hereabouts have already begun their own private court wars and tonight at the Sports Arena, Atlanta's big-time game season will be inaugurated when the Atlanta Crackers, formerly known as the Warren team, will play the fast Chicopee Mills quintet, of Gainesville, Ga.

New Boxing Gym Will Open Sunday

Bond's Gymnasium, Atlanta's newest boxing gymnasium, will be open to the public Sunday afternoon, with an array of the south's finest boxers in a public workout. The gym is located on the second floor of the building at Edgewood and Boulevard, N. E.

According to the managers of the gymnasium, several of the preliminary fighters on the Brown-Orville fight card will stage workouts in preparation for their bouts Monday night at the city auditorium.

"Jabbin' Fools, one of the really great little colored fighters of the south, will go through a few rounds with sparring partners. Also, Bruce Segars, former amateur champion, who will shortly turn professional, will work out. The management declared five or six bouts made up of amateur and professional boxers will give the fans who attend 20 rounds of boxing. The public is invited to attend. There will be no admission.

NEW STARS.

Four outstanding newcomers make prospects unusually bright. Gabby Greenberg, former star guard of the Jewish Progressive Club, is an important cog in the Cracker machine. Lamar Murphy, former Monroe Aggie luminary, who is the property of the New York Yankees, will play one of the forwards. Bob Lieb, former "little All-American" at Roanoke College, has won a regular guard berth.

Bud Shipper, rangy and classy center of the New York Shamrock professional team, will join the Crackers today, but will not see action for another week, due to lack of practice.

Tonight's starting five will offer Murphy and Bradford at forwards; big Ed Bellamy at center, and Greenberg and Lieb at guards.

Lauter believes that with Shipper in there he will have the strongest team he ever coached. Chicopee Mills is no soft touch as an opening opponent. The Gainesville gang is always loaded with talent and probably will make a game of it.

Atlanta will have at least three major independent teams this campaign. Besides the Crackers and the Jewish Progressive Club, announcement was made yesterday of the immediate appearance of another formidable club to be known as the "Crackerland Express." The club will be sponsored by Cracker Nelson.

Bo Johnston and Junior Anderson, two of Georgia Tech's finest players in recent seasons, will play with this new team, as will Ben Jones, another ex-Jacket; Jack Perkins, former star G. I. A. A. center with Tech High; Dusty Speer, another ex-Smithie; Ned Albertson, one-time Davidson College performer; Johnny Manion, Johnny Moon and Red Pittman.

The Crackerland Express will warm up against outside foes before tackling the Crackers or J. P. C., and urge teams interested in booking games to contact Elmore Thrash or Jack Perkins at 36 Broad street, Walnut 8757.

BARONS SELECT SMITH AS PILOT

Vet Pacific Coast Hurler To Succeed Dutch Zwilling.

BIRMINGHAM, Dec. 5.—(AP)—Ira Smith, veteran minor league pitcher, was chosen manager of the Birmingham Barons of the Southern association today.

Smith, who won 12 and lost four games last season with the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league, succeeds Dutch Zwilling. The new manager will take his turn on the mound in addition to his managerial duties.

Zwilling resigned at the end of the playing season. The Cincinnati Reds purchased control of the Birmingham club from Ed North in late summer, and announced that the club would have a playing manager in 1940.

Paul Florence, former New York Giant catcher, was named president of the Birmingham club and Bill McKenzie Jr., son of the Cincinnati manager, was appointed secretary-manager. Florence has been president of the Durham club of the Piedmont league, another Red farm.

Harry Hannah Succeeds Brazill as Chick Boss.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 5.—(AP) J. Harry Hannah, manager last year of the Pacific Coast league Los Angeles club, has been appointed manager of the Memphis Chickies for 1940, President Thomas R. Watkins announced by telephone from Cincinnati tonight.

Brazill so far has announced no plans, but it was anticipated that he would be taken back under the wing of the New York Giants.

YANKEES, CARDS HIGHLY ELATED BY NEW ACTION

Working Agreements Legalized; Each Club in Chain Treated Separately.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 5.—(UP)—Chain-store baseball scored a sweeping triumph at the second day's session of the National Association of Minor Leagues today when delegates adopted four amendments designed to curtail Commissioner K. M. Landis' campaign against farm clubs.

The St. Louis Cardinals, New York Yankees and other large-scale operators of farm clubs were highly elated over the day's happenings. Branch Rickey, father of chain-store baseball, described the new legislation as "marvelous."

Other operators of farm clubs characterized the results as the biggest blow ever struck at Judge Landis' opposition to dealings between major and minor league clubs.

The four amendments which will revolutionize chain-store operations follow:

1. Legalization of working agreements, which heretofore have been undefinable.

2. Passage of the old Baltimore agreement which makes it legal to recommend or sign a player and later acquire him.

3. Adoption of legislation providing that each club in a chain system must be considered as a separate unit.

4. Adoption of a rule providing that all baseball laws must be construed and interpreted in strict compliance with their provisions unless specifically exempted therefrom.

Nos. 1 and 2 were adopted as amendments to the minor league rules and immediately go into the books. Nos. 3 and 4 are amendments to the major-minor league rules and must be passed by the majors in their legislative sessions later this week. Inasmuch as these two amendments were proposed by the Brooklyn Dodgers, who are buying a big chunk under Larry MacPhail's direction, there seems little chance that they will be rejected.

NOX NOW.

Some of Commissioner Landis' recent decisions declaring minor league ball players free agents couldn't have been enacted down under the legislation enacted today. Landis' famous decision in the spring of 1938 when he declared a large number of Cardinal farm players free agents in a bold stroke at chain-store baseball comes in this category.

Landis' rulings in which he has considered all the clubs in a chain as the members of one organization will no longer be legal as a result of the amendment which states that each club must be considered as a separate and distinct unit with respect to all assignments and so-called working agreements, providing that the majors also pass this law.

The minors also gave Judge W. G. Bramham, president of their association, a mild rebuke when they refused to adopt two of his amendments pertaining to manipulation of players' contracts where no consideration is involved and cases involving payment of players' salaries where ball clubs are disbanded, forfeited or surrendered.

After their defeat Judge Bramham warned the minor leaguers that they were heading for trouble.

To Enforce 'Em.

"I want to warn you gentlemen the Commissioner Landis is going to enforce the rules pertaining to these amendments whether you adopt them or not," said Bramham. "The commissioner already has made rulings in accordance with these amendments."

Drug Store Mix-Up

Frenchman Still Wonders
About Mr. Kurtz's Cow.

(A graphic and intimate picture of behind-the-scenes action during the filming of a Hollywood epic is painted in this exclusive diary of Mrs. Annie Laurie Fuller Gurtz, Atlanta, who worked with her husband, Wilbur, as technical director in the making of "Gone With the Wind." This is the ninth of 15 installments.)

By ANNIE LAURIE F. GURTZ,
OCTOBER 5, 1939.

Wilbur worked all day on location—battling field shots and scenes relating to the siege of Atlanta. I went out for a while but did not stay as I was not needed.

Hattie McDaniel (Mammy) came in to show me, and have me pass on a script she is preparing for a personal appearance tour. Hattie planned and wrote the script herself and she will interpret it in her own inimitable way.

At night the studio force assembled back of stage 14 to film another scene of Scarlett's journey from Atlanta to Tara. A huge bridge and swamp had been constructed on the lot. Scarlett, with Melanie, the baby and Prissy, in the wagon pulled by the "wobegone" horse, is nearly there. It is early dawn. Scarlett is worn out—so are they all. The horse is completely done in. As they approach the bridge they hear the noise of galloping horses. The Yankees are coming! Scarlett drives the wagon down under the bridge to hide. She is waiting in water as she holds the nag's head. A squad of Yankee cavalry and two artillery units gallop madly over the bridge—rain is pouring and lightning flashing amid loud bursts of thunder.

Technical "Okay."

After several rehearsals, Eric Stacey, assistant director, came up to us and said, "Well, Wilbur, what do you think of it? Is it technically okay?" Such was Wilbur's enthusiasm, supported by all who had witnessed this spectacular scene, that Mr. Stacey turned to the prop and wardrobe men and said, "Go get 25 more horses and 25 more riders and have them costumed at once."

A delay ensued—perhaps an hour and a half, but time is not always the essence of cinema enterprise. At the designated signal, the thundering hoofs and rumbling wheels sounded upon the plank flooring of the bridge. The added effects of rain, and heavenly pyrotechnics combined to make this another high moment in the picture. These spectacles call for a perfect co-ordination of effort and no pains are spared to get the right feeling into them.

While we were waiting, Wilbur, who was busy about something, asked me if I would run over to the drug store and get him a number one sandwich. Obeyingly I went. I asked the young waitress if she would please fix Mr. Kurtz up a number one sandwich for me to take over to him.

"Number one?" she said. "O, no, Mr. Kurtz likes number four sandwiches."

"But," I replied, "he said number one."

"I'm sure he meant number four," she said sweetly.

"I couldn't have misunderstood," I told her.

Wants Roast Beef.

"Well," she said with confidence, "I know what Mr. Kurtz likes! He always wants roast beef."

MOTHER KNOWS!

When she was a youngster her mother gave her FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE to relieve colds and to build up resistance—so now she gives it to her own little girl for the same purpose. Good for all the family.

Successfully used over 84 years—that tells its own story!

TO TRAVEL THE NATION.

These presentations will be made after the costumes have been exhibited throughout the country during the showing of "Gone With the Wind."

Scarlett's green portiere dress is of great historical value because it reflects the expedients of an era in the south when women deprived by poverty and the Union blockade of the ordinary materials of dress used carpets, drapes, curtains and whatever other materials came to hand, to clothe themselves.

This dress, described in detail in Margaret Mitchell's book, was Bit by bit the fictitious "Gone With the Wind" Atlanta is becoming a permanent part of the Atlanta of today.

Scarlett's green portiere dress, which she wears during the blockade era of the film, will become the possession of the Rhodes Memorial Museum, and the elaborate miniature models from which the film sets were built are to be given the Atlanta Historical Society, E. B. Coleman, M.G.-M. official in charge of the premiere, announced here yesterday.

Mayor Hartsfield and other city officials sought, and have been promised, one of Scarlett's dresses and one of Rhett's suits for permanent display in the Cyclorama museum. Which two these will have not been designated as yet.

Scarlett's green portiere dress, which she wears during the blockade era of the film, will become the possession of the Rhodes Memorial Museum, and the elaborate miniature models from which the film sets were built are to be given the Atlanta Historical Society, E. B. Coleman, M.G.-M. official in charge of the premiere, announced here yesterday.

Mayor Hartsfield and other city officials sought, and have been promised, one of Scarlett's dresses and one of Rhett's suits for permanent display in the Cyclorama museum. Which two these will have not been designated as yet.

These presentations will be made after the costumes have been exhibited throughout the country during the showing of "Gone With the Wind."

Scarlett's green portiere dress is of great historical value because it reflects the expedients of an era in the south when women deprived by poverty and the Union blockade of the ordinary materials of dress used carpets, drapes, curtains and whatever other materials came to hand, to clothe themselves.

This dress, described in detail in Margaret Mitchell's book, was
